Upland High Experiences a Facelift

Over the summer, Upland High School experienced a facelift. Although not all of the changes were cosmetic, a great many were. Among those visible campus re-arrangements were the building of walls around the student and faculty parking lots, and replacing the tree-filled lot along Eleventh Street with new portable classrooms.

Besides the physical make-over, Upland was changed by the addition of new blood. Through Unification, Upland High School received fifty new qualified teachers. These teachers provided Upland High the life it needed to initiate fresh new ideas.

A change in the attitude of Uplanders also took place. Students gained school and class spirit through a feeling of unity. Unification brought in more money, decreasing the teacher-student ratio. The new Upland High School Guidance Office was also bettered through a computer system which cut down on long schedule correction lines at the beginning of the year.

A year before, when Unification was passed, no one was sure what would transpire. However, with every opposing factor, there were two successful accomplishments.

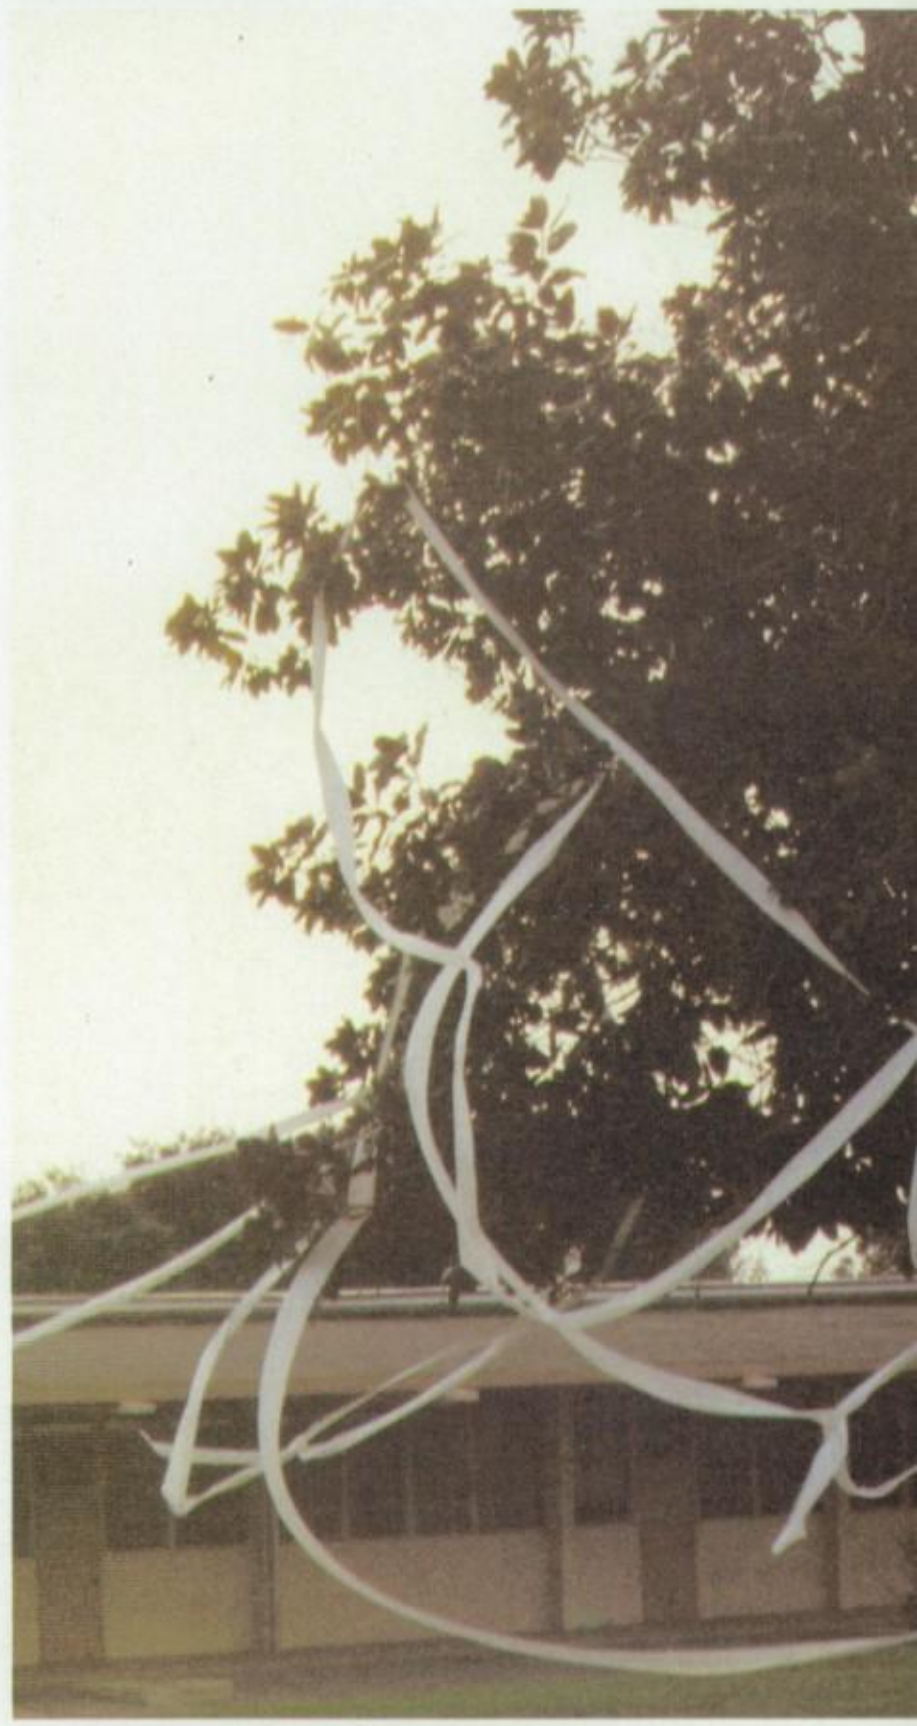
Wrapped in the spirit

Of a School Reborn All Wrapped Up



Before the 1988 academic year commenced in the fall, Upland High was wrapped up in a mass of confusion due to new construction, new rules and a new district. As September 8, 1987, approached, the faculty and administration had plans for the new year completed and wrapped up.

A multitude of students entered the "new" Upland High. Returning and new students became wrapped up in the confusion of new teachers, new buildings, and new room numbers. Though the massive changes throughout the school kept students and administration in utter chaos for over a month, the daily routines were successfully carried out.

The confusion passed as students became wrapped up in the festivities of the year. Spirit grew to an all-time high with each student devoting their cheers of excitement to encourage each other academically as well as athletically. Student involvement soared with club sizes enlarging and attendance at activities growing to astounding levels. Undoubtedly students wrapped themselves in the warmth and luxury of a school that they could be proud of.

With summer and graduation on the horizon, students saw the academic year wrapping up with memories and new insight about their community and the world around them.

Elements of class and style

Reflect a Maturing City

A city of beauty and class, Upland was the place to be. Everywhere one looked, a multitude of people could be seen. Construction sights were on the horizon as the city prepared itself for a greater population. Not only were houses under construction, but the Department of Motor Vehicles was flattened and rebuilt on Grove Avenue. Benson Avenue, Eighth Street, and Seventh Street found themselves torn up as crews worked efficiently to complete their respective task.

Elementary schools, junior high schools, and Upland High comprised the single school district which resulted in the uniting of the city. With unity growing, citizens of Upland welcomed visitors and were increasingly receptive to newcomers.

Many people engaged in various activities as Upland had a wide range of entertainment possibilities. People could be located at the Mann Theater or the Miniature Golf Courses. Sunday picnics in the park or at Mt. Baldy became immensely popular with Uplanders who fully recognized each treasured aspect of their community. With mountains rising to the north and rolling hills cascading in the south, Upland was a community that others held in great respect.

The summer saw many students

Soaking Up California Pleasures

With the many pleasures of Southern California open to vacationing Highlanders, the summer of '87 was spent filled with excitement.

Thousands of teenagers mobbed the beaches under a warm sun to enjoy the cool waves. The mountains were, for many, a quiet and relaxing place for nature walks along peaceful trails. Meanwhile, back in Upland, still others enjoyed community activities. While some teenagers found summer jobs to save money, others spent money to enjoy a variety of summer movies. For those searching for an inexpensive, relaxing theatre under the stars, "Summer Movies," sponsored by the Upland Recreation Department in Magnolia Park, provided a cold but homey atmosphere as 101 Dalmations raced across the screen.

Meanwhile, many students labored through an academic summer. Many chose to complete extra or required credits during summer school sponsored by La Verne University. Meanwhile, many college-bound seniors preparing for college applications toured the country visiting various colleges and universities.

Whether working to earn some money and experience, soaking up the pleasures of Southern California or preparing for the future, Higlanders became All Wrapped Up in the diverse activities the world had to offer.

Working for the Weekend

Movies, dances, clothes, fast food, and cars were only a few desires of today's teenagers. However, in order to have these things, money was a necessity. Since money doesn't grow on trees, many high school students needed to hold a part time job.

with another social life. They had t learn to work and deal with oth people. Students also made frien ships with fellow employees, wh without work, they wouldn't hav ever known.

Another positive aspect abo working during the school year wa

Students earn money to indulge in extracurricular activities

Many Upland students worked in the fast food, clerical, and personal service areas. King's Table, a restaurant across the street from the school, attracted much attention. Another hot spot for students was Miller's Outpost. Not only did they work there for money, but also worked for an education through the R.O.P. program. Many were also employed at Goldmine Yogurt, the mall, and one student, Fran Culp, worked at Astara, a metaphysical school on San Antonio. "I like my job because it's was really laid back and easy," admitted Fran.

The main reason the majority of students worked was for money, but they also worked to learn and gain working skills and experience. Students often found that holding a job could sometimes mean dealing that Upland offered work experien which allowed students to work f school credits. Students enrolled work experience could also wo more days a week and more hours day with a special work permit.

Although working could ha been a great experience, it also r quired extra time, as well as a gre deal of responsiblity. Students had fit in school and personal respo sibilities in their busy days, a sometimes working became burden. "Working isn't as bad as sounds," advised Holly Richar son, "it can actually be a gre experience."

Scots Journey

Costumes galore were seen as Upland students roamed the halls during 1987 spirit week.

The fun began on Tuesday October 20, with crazy hat day. Hats of different shapes, sizes, and colors were admired, laughed at, and complimented on as the students carried out the day.

On Wednesday, they dressed like archeologists. With hats, boots, and gloves, the day was carried through authentically.

On Thursday, Upland could have been mistaken for Disneyland, for people came to school in plaid bermudas, hats, and sun glasses, carrying colorful lunch pails and wearing cameras around their necks. It definitely was not Disneyland, however, it was simply Upland's tourist day.

When Friday, October 23, finally arrived, the students, anxious for the weekend activities, showed great spirit by dressing in school colors; green and white could be seen for miles.

It was a week of great enthusiasm, exhibiting the spirit of Upland's students. "Spirit week has always been a great week, but this year the students were more involved and seemed to have a lot more fun in dressing up," smiled Phil Purnell.

Homecoming Pride

Enthusiasm raged rampant as the students approached the gymnasium on Friday, October 23, for the 1987 Homecoming Rally. The students, anxious for the rally, entered the gym with school pride and spirit as they took their seats. Talking loudly with their friends, the students waited for the fun to begin.

After the students were seated in the gym, Travis Dredd, Pep Commissioner, along with the pep squad, led the students in the traditional Upland Alma Mater.

This rally, like most, included class competitions, cheerleader routines, and introductions of sports teams. Unlike other rallies, this one presented the introduction of the Homecoming Court. As the five girls from the court, and the six honorary princesses waltzed through the gym students cheered wildly. Each person in the crowd had a hope for one of the five court members to win the Homecoming Crown.

To wrap up the event, the students participated in a class chant and scurried noisely to their next class. "It was a great rally," smiled Tony Walker. "I loved the enthusiasm of the students."

Rain Check, Please

"As a result of the rain, we will not be able to have the annual pre-Homecoming parade. However, the coronation exercises will commence during halftime." This announcement sounded over the public address system on Friday, October 23, informing the student body of the changes that had to be made as a result of the downpour of rain earlier in the week. Although the parade could not go on and the processional of the princesses in their fashionable cars could not circle the track, our spirits refused to be dampened. Upon their introduction, Genny Arnold, Nina Caldera, Bridget Clarke, Bridget Ragle, and Heather Watson gracefully walked across the muddy field; each girl escorted by her father. Cheers and shouts arose from the stands as each princess marched through the soaked grass. Nervous anxiety engulfed the girls and the spectators until he first boquet was placed into First Attendant, Bridget Clarke's arms. Again, te anxiety built up until traditional mascot, Sandy Haas, gave the boquet to Nina Caldera, pronouncing her the 1987 Homecoming Queen. An explosion of joy rang throughout the stadium, providing that the rain could not wash away our enthusiasm.

Playing in Mud

'We were slipping and sliding all over the place'

Wham! Crunch! Thud! The sound of crashing pads and thumping helmets were heard on the field and in the stands at the 1987 Homecoming game. Parents and students alike came out in full force to watch the varsity football team take on the Tartans from Glendora High School. Spirit was raised to help move the ball towards the goal line. Although the team got off to a rough start, there was still an overwhelming amount of enthusiasm.

Playing was difficult because of the mud on the field. Robbie Ellis, punter, claimed "We were slipping and sliding all over the place." However, all these undesirable elements did not prevent people from attending. Upland High School alumni as well as current student body came out to cheer on their team. At halftime, when the coronation festivities began, the score was 20 to 0 in Glendora's favor.

Upon returning to the field after the half, Upland put forth their best effort to make up for the lost time, but the task was just too great. Although the scoreboard read 0 to 30, if the winner of the game was determined by the amount of spirit, Upland would have been the overwhelming favorite.

Sojourn in Egypt

It's usually a twelve hour flight, but Upland High School students were able to spend "A Night In Cairo" without the hassle of the baggage claim or customs office at the 1987 Homecoming Dance. The dance was held in the Upland High School gymnasium which was transformed into a gigantic pyramid by the creative use of blue and gold balloons. The walls were covered with life-sized portraits of King Tut and other Egyptian hieroglyphics. "It was the best I've ever seen a gym look, especially ours!" exclaimed junior Judy Sunu.

"It's the best I've ever seen a gym look, especially ours"

This gayla event was made even more special with music provided by Pro-Productions. Along with the up-to-date music, two large screens provided music videos to correspond with most of the songs.

Christine Kelly, Erica Finley, Pam Magdych, and Cynthia Monahan invested many hours of planning and effort into making the 1987 Homecoming Dance a superior memory in our minds. If the success of the evening was judged upon how many people were smiling when they left, then this year's dance was a shining example of excellence.

Preparing for an Egyptian Dream

Students go all out

Did you know that the 1987 Homecoming Chairmen were already planning for the big day way back in June? Christine Kelly, Erica Finley, Pam Magdych, and Cynthia Monahan were regular "Boy Scouts," upholding the motto "Be Prepared." These chairmen had to plan the location, decorations, theme, refreshments, entertainment, and every detail down to the color of streamers on the refreshment table for this important dance. Students also had many plans to make before the event. Boys had to decide which girl to ask, while girls had to conjure up plans to get boys to decide on them.

After having a date secured, there were still many more details to be taken care of. The problem of what to wear had to be addressed. A strapless gown? A tux with or without tails and top hat? Girls had to decide which color nail polish would match best, while boys had to decide what kind of cologne to wear, and which restaurant to go to.

A job worth doing is a job worth doing well, and the 1987 Homecoming Dance was a job well done. Christine Kelly claimed "We really worked hard to make the 1987 Homecoming Dance an enjoyable time for everybody." In the end, all the hours of preparations, whether they be in chosing the style of dress, or the location of the dance itself, were worth the effort.

Students in Disguise

Uplanders enjoy a day of spooks

Jack-o-lanterns, black cats, superstitions, trick-or-treaters, and goblins are some of the things you think of when you remember October 31. El dia de brujas, more commonly known as Halloween, is a tradition celebrated in many countries. Uplanders took part in this custom in their array of costumes ranging from hippies to babies to pregnant women. A lunchtime activity was held, and judges scrutinized the costumes of the parading contestants. Some of the winners included Bridget Clarke in her costume of a carrot, and Heather Ellis and Holly Richardson dressed as twin ghosts. "Halloween is loads of fun, because I love seeing all the costumes and laugh at the crazy ideas," joked senior Kerry Hogan.

Behind the Mask

Fathers and daughters experience a night of mystery

A great way to show your dad that he's still special in your life, is to spend an evening with him at the Father-Daughter Banquet. Girls' Leauge sponsored the annual Father-Daughter Banquet and, as usual, the event was a huge success. Held on October 27, at Griswold's Inn in Claremont, the memorable evening was enjoyed by all the father-daughter pairs who attended.

The banquet was two and a half hours packed with activities. Most of the time was spent socializing, eating dinner, and taking portraits. Following dinner, Girls' League members held the special activities. The first game, Know Your Daughter, was similar to the Newlywed game but instead of newlyweds, pairs of fathers and daughters were selected to participate. In the end, the juniors proved the wisest. The next game was called Telephone, where once again, they chose representatives from each class. A story was told to the senior, who passed it on to the junior, and so on until the freshman had a completely different story to tell the audience.

The final activity of the evening was presenting the Father of the Year award. This year's deserving winner was Mr. John McCallum. The winning essay was written by his daughter, Wendy McCallum. The reading of her essay marked the end of the eveing. Though only one winner arose, surely all the fathers in attendance were Fathers of the Year in his daughter's eyes.

Freedom Remains

Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness

by Maureen Smith

For 200 years, the United States government has derived its strength and endurance from our Constitution which has lasted longer than any other constitution in the world. "Our Constitution is unlike any other," insisted David Bolinger, a Junior. "It provides guidelines, yet allows freedom within those guidelines. I don't think many students fully realize the fact that our Constitution, in effect, allows us to be individuals rather than just faces in a crowd of many."

Mr. Glenn, a U.S. History teacher, and Ms. Lubarsky, a World History teacher, both agreed that because of the struggles our forefathers battled through, they were glad to see that our Constitution was established and had lasted for 200 years.

America commemorated, through the media and celebration, the triumph of our government, which became a model for the world. The American Constitution is protection of liberties of individuals. The Constitution itself provides important guarantees of civil liberties. It provides a court of law which can impose punishment for unlawful acts. The Constitution gives special protection to people accused of treason, and also protects the innocent relatives of a person accused of treason.

This Constitution establishes a common standard of law for every American citizen, young and old, rich and poor alike.

Barbecue Satiates

Hot dogs, potato salad, chili, and chips were only a few of the variety of foods served at the annual Senior barbecue on November 17. A charge of $1.50 was the entrance fee to this food festival before the Powder Puff game.

Food was supplied by the team members and their parents. "It gave us the opportunity to get psyched up for our victory," claimed Kerry Lounsbury. "Not very many people showed up. It was mainly the players, but we had fun."

The seniors not only enveloped themselves in food but also played in the meantime. Disregarding proper table manners, seniors frolicked while dining. Pyramids were built, food was thrown, and tables were shaken. "I was impressed by the spirit of the senior team," expressed Krista Justis.

The whole atmosphere was one of hunger for food, fun, and victory. All attitudes were to ensure a positive mentality and support the team. As encouraged by Debbie Harn, "We were all revved up and ready to beat the juniors!"

A Tradition

Seniors capture the victory

The continuing battle between the seniors and the juniors was fought out once again on the football field on November 17 at 7 p.m. It was the fight of the year between the ladies in the perennial Powder Puff game.

The class of '88 proved they were the best as the senior team overtook the juniors with a score of 14 to 7. Seniors Susan Dyar and Heather Watson made the two touchdowns while Cindy Sinclair scored both kicks. The juniors did bypass the seniors by making one touchdown, but they were unable to break the tactics of the seniors.

"I think the seniors were more prepared this year because juniors were just learning the game," explained senior Brandi Hoffman. "We had an advantage because we already knew what we were doing."

Not only did each team give a strong performance, but so did the senior and junior Powder Puff cheerleaders. On each side was a group of gentlemen dressed in plaid skirts hooting for their team. The guys rallied, danced, and built pyramids, trying to uplift the spirit of the teams and the crowd through their support.

In effect, an overall feeling for most was expressed by Hoffman, "It was exciting. We won. Seniors should win."

Sadie Hawkins spirit reigns in a winter wonderland

"Sleigh-bells ring, are you listening? In the land, snow is glistening. A beautiful sight, we're happy tonight walking in a Winter Wonderland . . ."

The setting for the 1987 Backwards Dance sponsored by the Girls' League Association was just that — a Winter Wonderland. The Girls' League Cabinet and members worked hard to achieve the atmosphere that was present. The dance, on December 5th, was held in the Chaffey College cafeteria. For this one evening the cafeteria was transformed into a flurry of snowflakes, and winter beauty. Mary Doyle, Girls' League President, claimed, "We really had to work hard to pull it off, but it was a success." Music was provided by Orion Entertainment, and Sanford Studios brought out their camera man to record this big event for Upland couples. The "Grand Finale" of the entire evening occured when Gary Cottrell was crowned "Backwards King," with his princes being Kevin Elder, Jordan Smith, Paul Cushing, and Caley Conway. "The best part about backwards was the Sadie Hawkins spirit, plus it was a free ticket to a night of entertainment," quipped senior Paul Skousen.

Drama performs the Odd Couple

"Lights, camera, action!" was an exclamation that might have been heard from Mrs. Cindy Little, director of the winter play, The Odd Couple, performed on January 21, 22, and 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

The actors and actresses were chosen strictly from the Drama classes. These actors and actresses were the best prepared and had the best feeling for the parts. Those participating rehearsed everyday after school for three months.

The play was a comedy about people living in New York City. There were three different casts. Two of the casts were performed with women and one was with men. Included in the female version were Jackie Garcia, Beth Salen, Kelly Schwalbach, Jocelyn Arellano, Shelly Lester, Krista Turnham, John Edwards, David Bolinger, Shannon Dell, Colleen Dee, Jennifer Fittante, Tisha Dineen, Tammy Spotswood, and Leslie Sapperstein. Dennis Hancock, David Moorman, John Edwards, David Fleck, Jim Scroggins, Craig McElvany, Laura Campbell, and Joni Kaufman participated in the male version. In this Neil Simon play a group of friends got together and portrayed the difficulties of living with other people.

Mother-Son Banquet hits a home run

Fourth year into the tradition, the Girls' League held its Mother-Son "Take Me Out To The Banquet" on February 28, 1988. The two and a half hour event was commissioned at Griswold's Inn from 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

The night was an invitation from the sons to their mothers for all the love and joy they cherish in their relationship. About sixty people showed up for the chicken dinner which included a house salad and dessert.

A period for games was set after dinner. Mothers were questioned on how much they knew about their sons. Laughter filled the room when the rumor game was played. It was played with students from each clas telling a story over and over unt passed finally to the freshman so and mother pair.

Then, the banquet closed with th announcement of the Mother-of-the Year. Eric Scott told a compellin story that captivated all in the room.

The banquet was inevitably a suc cess due to the hard work from th Girls' League Cabinet member Senior Representative Amy Edg ington concluded, "It was a ve small but intimate crowd. Everyo got to know each other and I thi people got to make new friends."

Jungle Love

Uplanders explore romance in the safari

Tarzan and Jane couldn't have asked for a better setting for their blissful romance than what Upland couples experienced at the 1988 Sweetheart's Dance sponsored by the Sophomore Class. Sweethearts was held on Friday, February 26th in our very own Upland High School gym. One hundred thirty-five couples came out to support this grand school event.

The theme of the evening was "Jungle Love" with the gym being camouflaged as a safari land including hanging vines and a mossy pond. To add to the jungle atmosphere there was a gorilla roaming the dance floor. Instead of bongo drums and reggae singers, music was provided by "Fashionable Dee-Jays." Jay Fitzgerald, our "fashionable" dee-jay claimed, "These kids really know how to have a good time — they're so enthusiastic!" The climax of the evening was the crowning of the "Royal Couple." This great honor was bestowed upon Danny Goetsch and Denise Baranowski.

All in all, the 1988 Sweethearts dance was an enormous success. Sophomore Class President Sarah Wingate admitted, "Putting on a dance is a big job, but it is well worth it when it all comes together."

The Sophomore Class would have even made Tarzan, Jane, and Cheetah proud!

odeling in the gym, Rina Sanusi displays the ecorative dress of her native country, donesia.

They came from all over the globe, places most people have only vaguely heard of: Denmark, Germany, Indonesia, Spain, and Sweden. Leaving their homes, family and friends to be replaced with new ones, they lived a year in an unknown country. They came to Upland High, hoping to make lasting friendships, experience a different culture, and gain knowledge through these new experiences. At the same time, the exchange students gave Highlanders an opportunity to become acquainted with someone from another land.

Once recovered from culture shock, the foreign exchange students were kept constantly busy. They not only had to go to school, but study very hard to keep up, since all their work was to be done in a foreign language. AFS gave them chances to go skiing, ice skating, and planned get togethers for them. These gatherings gave them chances to discuss the problems and joys involved in being in a foreign land. They also had the chance to travel, seeing other parts of the state beyond Upland, such as San Francisco, and San Diego.

Rina Sanusi spoke for all of the foreign students when she announced, "This was a year of great experiences that will live in my heart forever."

Decisions, Decisions

A.S.B. Shapes Upland's Future

To a pre-schooler A stands for appel, S stands for sandwich, and B stands for ball, but for the Upland Highlanders these letters stand for much, much more. A.S.B., the Associated Student Body, are student leaders who represent all of Upland's students. Led by President Rose Huang, the main goal for the 1987-1988 A.S.B. was to become a unified group with the purpose of helping the students to become more aware of activities and events.

Whether aware of it or not, the A.S.B./Student Leadership group played an enormous part in how the school functioned. A.S.B. passed requisitions for the purchasing of new computers, the payment of referees for all sporting events and more. Genny Arnold, A.S.B. Vice-President, stated "It's a lot of responsibility, but the end justifies the means!"

With new administrative positions on campus, Mr. Jim Drake lead the Student Government class, and helped to organize events such as the A.S.B. sponsored Blood Drive, and the December Canned Food Drive. The hard work seemed to pay off when Upland students appeared content in their atmosphere.

Squads Radiate Enthusiasm

The Pep Squad has been enthusiastically loyal to the school and its teams. They used their variety of spirit and knowledge, to project in routines. They insisted through cheer that each player use his determination, bravery, and fairness to achieve his goal. This encouragement radiated throughout the team and promoted positive attitude.

Each member of the Pep Squa was chosen to achieve a task. Th task was to bring on a mood working together as a team. Th eventually resulted in the team's a ceptance of the outcome at the en of the game.

Motivation was the feeling th was shown in the spirit of the Pe Squad. The variation of routine wa brought through hours of mind an bodywork.

Mrs. Henderson was their advisor. When asked what being a pep advisor was like, she replied, "Being a pep advisor at Upland High School is probably the most challenging and rewarding position of all my educational experiences." Whether being on the squad or being an advisor, each was an important position. An advisor's job was to keep the squad a happy one and the squad's job was to keep their team in high spirits.

Their perfection was shown to th team and the advisor's work wa shown through each squad's prese tation. All in all, it seemed there w always an impression of exciteme for the audience and also for th teams. The pep squad had great i spiration and really added life to game.

Keeping With the Tempo

Tall Flags and Rifles twirl to the top

The Fall Flags and Rifles teams added splendor to Upland's Marching Band display. A well known reason for having a team of Tall Flags and Rifles was to create routines, to compete and to perform.

It was always a more enjoyable experience to see the Tall Flags and Rifles express their talent in harmony with the Marching Band. Tall Flags demonstrated remarkable coordination and accompaniment.

Miss Fairfax had been advising for four years and still felt nervous and excited before a competition or a field show. To become a part of the Tall Flags' team, try-outs were held in the Spring of 1987. The participants ranged from grades ninth to twelfth. Tall Flags was a class because it had a two semester program. At the end of the first semester anyone could drop and new people were able to begin learning how to work with the flags. However, to be officially on the team, one had to audition and be chosen. The team had competed in five competitions and performed at five football games by the end of the second semester. All of the time and practices resulted in an award-winning season.

Upland High School Drill Team wins highest sweepstakes award

Twirls, jumps, and the splits are just some of the moves that the award winning 1987-1988 Drill Team displayed. Julie Cryan, Heather Pulley, and Marie Ali, the Drill Team captains, helped the group win the 1987 sweepstakes, the highest award in competition. These girls put forth many hours a week in order to choreograph and practice their routines, enableing them to perform above par. Junior, Heather Pulley claimed "Drill took a lot of time, but it was all worth it when we got to know the whole squad. It was great."

The Drill Team displayed talents for Upland at all home football games and also devoted many Saturdays for competition against other schools. Mrs. Martha Brown, the devoted director, made it possible for these girls to make it to the top.

In the end, the Upland High School Squad became "all wrapped up" in their work, loving what they did. Three cheers for our spirit-promoting Drill Team.

Regiment Reigns

UHS band gets new direction marches to victory in tournaments

Being a band member was not an easy task. Many people did not understand that there was more to band than fancy costumes, nice instruments, and great sounding music. Upland's dedicated band students not only had early morning practices, but also dedicated their Tuesday nights to rehearsing and Saturday mornings to school competitions. They played in school rallies, home football games, and other activities which required a lot of extra time.

It was also difficult to reshape the band after Mr. Arnold departed. They had to adjust to the style o new director, Greg Solomon, an did a tremendous job of it. With Mr Solomon's organization and techni ques, they were able to pull off a award winning year. "It's without doubt the best band we've had sinc I've been here. We really had t make a big adjustment to the new director." stated senior Rob Bach.

The band and its new director ad justed to each other and starte down the road to new awards an levels of excellence.

Medieval Melodies

Many people were involved in the art of music. The choral department a part of this, expressed the form of singing. The four various choruses were Concert Choir, Madrigals, Jazz Show Choir and Mixed Chorus.

The choruses raised money for a trip to San Francisco by holding their first annual "Elizabethan Dinner." The event was held December 11, 12, and 13. The setting was a Medieval times Christmas feast celebrating the King and Queen's generosity. The roles of King and Queen were played by Mike Eberhardt and Shannon Hargrove. The Madrigal singers served as the court followed by the Jazz Show choir and Mixed chorus as servants. The purpose of the trip to San Francisco was to experience singing in a different environment and to better their singing ability.

Whether preparing to become music instructors, professional singers, or voice conductors, Chorus was a beneficial element in each singer's future career.

The Final

Countdown

Wrapped in the excitement of their final year at Upland High School, seniors engaged themselves in numerous activities. Going out to lunch at Taco Bell or Wendy's, posing for the panoramic photo, and going to Grad Night were the exclusively senior things to do. Pride in the school and the class of 1988 was present everywhere. Excitement rang throughout the body of every senior as he cheered, "We are Upland! We are great! We are the class of 88! SENIORS!"

by Jennifer Bales

Reflections of High School Memories

"... but, mommy, they're all bigger and smarter and stronger than me. Please don't make me go, Please!" With fear and hesitation, Freddie stepped out of the car and onto the Upland High School campus.

As the entering class of 1988, a fearful but excited one, we dressed in fluorescent fashions from head to neon toe. However, we soon learned that being a little less conspicuous prevented downfalls with trash cans and Freddie names. Facing the back side of the cheerleaders, we enjoyed the enthusiasm of our first high school rally.

It seemed years later, but only the next year, we returned to a somewhat familiar campus with the relief of no longer being addressed as "Freddie." Finally being able to view the faces of cheerleaders at rallies, we chimed in "sophomores" with spirit as the "Beer Beer" cheer was chanted throughout the gym.

Returning for our most important and most difficult academic year, we approached classes with hesitation but prepared to face a stressful junior year. Though our chance to cheer "juniors" in the traditional fight song was lost, we still revelled in the excitement of each rally. To compensate for the long hours of work invested into our classes, we dined in elegance at the Junior-Senior Prom held at the Disneyland Hotel.

Four years ago, reaching our senior year seemed like an eternity, but we made it! Recognizing our way around campus, we proudly strutted to our classes, occasionally selling an elevator pass to a gullable freshman.

A Quick Nap

To break up day's monotony

There are certain days in the course of everyone's year when one simply cannot keep his eyes open at school. A valiant effort is made to stay awake in every class, but sometimes it just does not work.

While concentrating on a book, listening to a lecture, or watching a movie, one's head drops and it is all over. The main disadvantage is finding an entire class period wasted. However, teachers may also be a small problem. Some may recognize what hectic lives students lead and let us stay alseep, maintaining the fact that it is our choice as to what we do with our education. Mr. Henke, one understanding teacher, explained that if his students sleep during class "it must be because of all the work they do at home for their parents, or because they had stayed up all night doing homework." He went as far as to claim, "My students are so dedicated that they come home from Prom at ten o'clock to work on homework for my class." Unfortunately, in a large majority of classes, if the mistake of falling asleep is made, a rude awakening can be expected. Some ways teachers accomplish this is first, repeatedly calling the student's name, second, asking the student a question, or third, the ever-popular, hitting the desk with a yardstick.

So one should make sure to know how his or her teacher is going to react before falling asleep in his or her class.

Is there a trainer In the House

Imagine being the only girl in the midst of football players who desperately need you to take care of them and get them prepared for the big game. Imagine people depending on you and turning to you in the face of adversity. Imagine having the responsiblity of keeping things running smoothly when your boss isn't around. Now image that all of this is done by a student at U.H.S. As the student trainer, Joanna Cason was the assistant to Charlie Martinez. During her junior and senior years Joanna dedicated most of her spare time to wrapping knees, icing swollen ankles, and encouraging each of Upland's athletes. "People usually thought that I was so lucky to personally know all of the guys (on the football team), but it wasn't a big deal. They were all good friends," admitted Joanna. At nearly every sporting event, she could be found on the sidelines, prepared for any emergency. Without a doubt Joanna's time was well spent after school and at games. She was an invaluable asset to each person that she helped, especially Charlie Martinez.

Senior achievement considered

Outstanding

Even though the class of '88 was anything but average, the typical high school senior, within his four years at U.H.S., has probably . . .

. . . stared at the cafeteria food in fear 573 times before retreating to a candy bar

. . . listened to 27 "special" announcements over the P.A. system

. . . been called on 17 times to answer a question when he hasn't done his homework and has been staring out the window all day

. . . spent 38 nights and 114 hours cramming for finals

. . . spent $1,440 keeping up with every fashion trend that has since arisen

. . . spent $420 on off-campus lunches during his senior year.

Hamburgers, tacos, pizza ... What to do for lunch? This was the question many seniors asked themselves as the lunch bell sounded. Some quickly gathered their books and rushed to their cars to avoid Louie, the proctor. Others leisurely strolled toward the cafeteria, hardly daring to imagine what horrors awaited them. With an extra five minutes for lunch, they knew hurrying was unneccessary.

Senior Privilege Cards enabled seniors to venture off-campus for lunch. To gain these privileges, seniors had to apply and be accepted by their counselors.

"Now, where to go?", some seniors pondered as they escaped campus for lunch. If they felt like pizza, Little Caesar's was often their choice. A passion for tacos was satisfied at Taco Bell. For hamburgers, they could journey to In-N-Out, Wendy's, or McDonald's. Of those yearning for a frozen treat, most traveled to Goldmine Yogurt. Those desiring a good 'ole hoagie could go to Gourmet to Go Deli or Togo's. Decisions! Decisions!

Monday Blues

Nationwide disease hits Upland

"Click! . . . that's the weather. Traffic is next and we'll talk with Bruce who's busy flying high above all the trouble spots . . ."

Most students wake up similar to this every weekday morning. After you groan and curse at your alarm clock, you reluctantly get up and start your morning ritual. A common sign is hitting the snooze button to allow "just ten more minutes." This usually causes Monday Blue Frenzies, and you usually end up hurrying to catch your ride unable to find anything you need.

Monday mornings are most hated by students everywhere mainly because they symbolize the beginning of a week filled with the dreaded thing called "school."

Monday Blues can even carry on throughout the week. They can switch or magically transform into Tuesday Blues when you are unaware, making you think it's Wednesday when it's really Friday.

So remember, the next time your brain is jumbled or you just can't crack a smile, blame it on Monday even if it's Wednesday or Sunday.

Girls' State Citizen

Wrapped up in leadership

Have you ever wondered how the California state government system operates? One way to answer this question is to be a member of the Girls' State program. Senior, Cindy Sinclair was the selected candidate who represented Upland High at the state conference in Sacramento June 28 to July 4, 1987.

The objective of the program was to teach young leaders of America the democratic system of our country's legislation. Cindy declared, "I was able to establish my moral and political beliefs through my experience with Girls' State."

Other than as a learning experience, she wanted to be involved in the program to "visit our state capital, meet some girls with similar interests, and of course, it looks good on a college transcript."

Her involvement began with a teacher's recommendation for her to be a possible candidate for Girls' State. "I was called into the office with about ten other girls because one of my teachers nominated me and also, I had a good GPA," added Cindy. "I didn't think I would be chosen, but I felt good about my interview and felt I had a good chance."

Cindy felt benefitted by the program. "It's a great place for young citizens to become more aware of how their state operates." Furthermore, she advised, "The girl who goes there should have a real interest in politics, be up-to-date on current events, have good speaking skills, 'an open mind,' and outgoing personality."

Academic success finally Pays Off

Fall was a time of testing for college-bound students. It was when juniors decided to take the PSAT/NMSQT and possibly qualify as a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist.

The test was an annual competition sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. It recognized the students who scored in the top half percentile in the nation. Those who qualified may receive scholarships of up to $12,000.

Upland High proudly boasted its three semi-finalists: Khymberli Apaloo, Denise Baranowski, and John Pilafidis.

Khymberli reacted with both surprise and delight when she was informed of her achievement. "I didn't think I was going to make it. I just filled in the bubbles and didn't think much of it," she reflected.

Denise, also a gifted student, had recently moved to Upland from Oklahoma. She confessed, "I was really surprised when I found out."

John, an academically inclined student, felt honored when Mr. Fisher informed him. "It was during lunch one day. Mr. Fisher came up to me and told me I was a semi-finalist," exclaimed John.

Each of the three semi-finalists were quite excited and surprised with their accomplishment. Of course, it was no wonder that these intellectuals were able to qualify for the National Merit Scholarship.

Tami Woods: Get it girl.

A day of Academic Relief

There is a tradition among seniors which gives them a break from the monotony of their daily class schedules. This tradition is none other than Senior Ditch Day. On this day, seniors get a taste of the glory of being a senior.

Sorry to say, the day cannot be followed through without opposition from the faculty and administration. Announcements of consequences arise, but they should not be condemned if their view is a conservative one. Senior Ditch Day could never be legalized because the district requires that each student be in school for 64,800 minutes per school year. Then again, nothing is impossible!

According to Mr. Glenn Fisher, "We wish that whatever they do, do it in good taste and don't harm anyone. We just want them to be careful, as we know they will have a ditch day anyway."

Surprise in Every Direction

A year of never-ending surprises faced the world as 1988 commenced in spectacular style. From major news headliners to major fashion headturners, from entertainment box office smashes to sports box office crashes, we wrapped oursleves in the glory that all the world around us could produce.

by Annie Wu

News

The 1987-88 year was one filled with controversy and fascination. Beginning in the summer, Americans absorbed every word Lt. Col. Oliver North had to confess about the Iran Contra Affair. Meanwhile, the Middle East remained a fearful area of combat as the U.S. sent naval ships to patrol the Persian Gulf.

Back in New York, the stock market took an astonishing crash as prices fell 508 points. October 19, otherwise known as "Black Monday" was felt around the world as many trade centers closed early to avoid any greater losses. Earlier that month, Mother Nature also decided to shake up Southern California as many were awakened at 7:42 a.m. to an earthquake measuring 6.1 on the Richter scale. Over twenty aftershocks have continued even into February.

At the Soviet-American Arms Summit in Washington, the two world powers signed a treaty limiting some medium-range nuclear missles. The meeting set a precedent for more hopeful future conferences. Promoting faith and harmony, the Papal Tour journeyed to the United States for a ten day cross-country visit.

In the meantime, scandal arose throughout America. Jim and Tammy Bakker continued to be topics of ridicule while other television evangelists such as Jimmy Swaggart were exposed of their misuse of ministry funds. Leading Democratic hopeful Senator Gary Hart pulled out of the 1988 Presidential race when his affair with model Donna Rice was revealed. Judge Robert Bork, nominated for U.S. Supreme Court Justice, stirred controversy around the Nation. His overly conservative past records lost him the confirmation.

The year of ups and downs and shakes and quakes was still a time of celebration. The 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution served as a reminder of the freedom and justice our forefathers granted us which we have been destined to carry on.

In the seven years since Americans first heard of a mysterious immunity-robbing disease from which no one recovers, AIDS has killed nearly 25,000 Americans. Millions of dollars have poured into medical research and President Reagan has proclaimed the plague "Public Health Enemy No. 1."

Entertainment

Following in the old M.G.M. saying, "Make it good . . . Make it big . . . Give it class . . .," the entertainment industry carried on its tradition into 1988.

Blockbuster movies like Broadcast News, Ironweed, and Moonstruck captured the admiration of millions of moviegoers and the top Academy Award nominations for all of its stars. The greatest honor, however, went to the biographical epic The Last Emperor with nine nominations. Attracting long lines of audiences, Good Morning, Vietnam presented the courage and humor behind wartorn Vietnam. Fatal Attraction brought the excitement of suspense thrillers back to the big screen while also receiving a best picture nomination.

Back in the comfort of one's own home, the television world continued to provide comedy for its viewers. The Cosby Show remained tops in the ratings battle while helping its spinoff, A Different World, to successfully complete its first season. Rising above longe standing nighttime dramas L.A. Law introduced the difficulties of criminal and corporate law while envelop ing the audience in the per sonal lives of its characters.

Meanwhile, the music scene saw the return of such names as Cher, Rick Spr ingfield, and George Har rison, each with a new album, a new look, and a new perspective on life a demonstrated in their songs Recognized for their outstanding musica achievements, U2, Sting Michael Jackson, an Bruce Springsteen receiv ed numerous Grammy nominations for their new albums while touring the Na tion in breathtaking concer performances. Newcomer Jody Watley, Terenc Trent D'Arby, an Richard Marx made an im pact on rock with their firs albums reaching platinum.

The artists of the ente tainment industry made th year in cinema, televisio and music good, the publi made it big, and everythin in '88 reflected class!!!

Sleep all day. Party all night. It's fun to be a vampire.
THE LOST BOYS
THE MOVIE THAT MADE IT HIP TO BE A VAMPIRE IS NOW ON VIDEOCASSETTE.
THE LOST BOYS

The Lost Boys brought the mystery of vampires back to the movies. The adventure-horror with-a-twist-of-comedy flick brought together an ensemble of talented young actors.

With compassion and class

That's Entertainment

A simple story combined with provocative dancing and choreography, Dirty Dancing became a surprise box office smash. Its soundtrack also reached platinum with various singles reaching the top ten on music charts.

Once again, rockers around the world gathered to create an album to aid a needy cause. "A Very Special Christmas" consisted of new and remade holiday songs whose profits were donated to the Special Olympics.

Three Men and A Baby was only one among many Touchstone pictures which grossed amazing profits for the Disney Corporation. Americans fell in love with the three charming fathers and of course, with little Mary.

Sports

From boxing to bobsledding; football to figure skating; tennis to baseball, Americans pulled out the stops and went for first in every athletic area. Battling to win the World Series, the New York Mets went up against the Minnesota Twins . Utilizing all seven of the games, the Twins arose victorious.

As the baseball and football seasons merged, football fans were faced by striking pros. After weeks of scab games, enthusiasm cooled, yet it did not die. The Super Bowl heated up the action on the field. The Washington Redskins , concidered to be the underdogs, came on strong, making 39 points to the Denver Broncos' mere 10.

Things were active in the boxing ring as well. Larry Holmes challenged champion, Mike Tyson, but it was futile at best. In the third round, Tyson knocked out Holmes.

The big event of 1988, however, was the XV Winter Olympics in Calgary, Alberta Canada. Although the United States did not win many medals, the Olympic spirit prevailed. Jill Watson and Peter Oppeguard won our first medal, a bronze, in the pairs figure skating.

Our first gold was won on the ice as well. In men's figure skating a war known as "The Battle of the Brians" was waged. America's Brian Boitano emmerged the winner over Canada's Brian Orser . It was a fight that kept Americans and Canadians on the edge until "The Star Spangled Banner" was played at the medal ceremony.

Another close fight on the ice was between America's Debi Thomas and East Germany's Katarina Witt . Known as "Dueling Carmens," Thomas and Witt skated their long program to the same music. Unfortunately, Thomas made three errors on her jumps and fell from first to third, leaving the silver for Canadian, Elizabeth Manley.

Winning medals was not the sole measure of success. Bonnie Warner, a Mt. Baldy native, placed sixth in the luge. She advanced nine places since the 1984 Games in Sarajevo. Undoubtedly, Warner tasted sweet victory.

It was this competitive spirit that pushed Americans to perform at their best. Amatures and professionals alike reached within themselves and went for the Gold.

Fashion

Bzzzzzzzz. The clock sounded, waking Upland High students. Sleep-filled eyes looked toward the closet in search of the perfect outfit. A casual look could be found in Levi's and logo t-shirts. If sophistication was the attitude you wanted to project, a mini skirt and a silky blouse would be just the thing.

Yet fashion of '88 went beyond Levi's and mini skirts. Denim came in more varieties — stonewashed and acid-washed jeans accompanied the old faithful 501 blues. Rugby shirts in stripes and solids were paired with virtually everything from shorts to pants. Rich, textured ski sweaters became a popular trend that had everyone wrapped in warmth.

From hi-tops to boots, shoes made their own fashion statement. Reeboks and Converse remained ever-popular for the sporty look. Comfort was found in deck shoes for men and stylish flats for women. To fit the more dressy look, a pair of pumps or a pair of boots in any color would present an elegant appearance.

Patterns and colors made impressive impacts as well. The classic look of houndstooth returned with increased popularity. The drama of black and white was seen everywhere. Reguardles of what your fashion preference was, the styles of 1988 could accomodate you.

Population

Explosion

As predicted, Unification introduced a massive enrollment explosion. The increased herd of Juniors returned to school with expected fear of their most important and most difficult year of high school. Sophomores eagerly approached with the relief of no longer being Freshmen, yet once again faced an unfamiliar campus. Freshmen entered the new and foreign world with constant fear of Seniors and trash cans. As excitement and fear tingled through each individual, they became All Wrapped Up in the confusion, the pride and the spirit of the new Upland High School.

Again following in the usual tradition, the Junior class officers planned the annual Junior-Senior Prom, the main event of the season. They were responsible for organizing and making the event a special evening for all. Each officer worked hard to achieve perfection.

They could not have done it without the help from their advisors: Mr. Crum, Mrs. Murphy, and Ms. Wills. "They have been a lot of help. They have suggested how to run meetings and fund raisers," proclaimed Charles Wang, Junior class President. The rest of the cabinet included Vice-President Curt Taylor, Secretary Megan Callahan, and Treasurer Chrissie Morgan.

One big disappointment for the ficers was their Homecoming flo "We were really upset when found out we weren't going to put the floats. A lot of money was spe on our float. It was one big disa pointment," declared Wang.

They looked forward to recove ing their loss from their one and on fund raiser, the Christmas gram sa Wang explained, "The only thing planned for before Prom was t grams."

It was obvious that through ea members' efforts, they were able accomplish their tasks and goa "We communicate real well," add Charles Wang, "I think that help us."

Lights Out

Students and staff enjoy minimum day

Students who were awake on Monday, December 7, 1987, noticed that every door had a letter posted on it. One student read the letter on the door to his class. From there, the news of a minimum day spread over Upland High.

Due to the powerful storm the day before, the main transformer blew. Band members were assigned to designated areas on campus to play "Charge" to let students and teachers know when classes started and ended.

By the end of first period, students discovered they could sign out of class if rooms were too cold for them. By second period, many students were "too cold" and had to leave for home.

By second period the lights came back on and Upland High was faced with the dreadful possibility of a full day. During fourth period there was an announcement about keeping the minimum day schedule.

Although the lights came back on, many students had already left for the day. They went to the movies, to the mountains, or to friends' houses. Because many students had already gone, some classes consisted of only three students.

Congratulations were in order for the teachers and staff who successfully carried off the incident.

Dangling Participles

Provide diversity and fun

From a pair of fuzzy dice to a smiling Garfield, these were objects which might have hung on the rear view mirrors of cars around campus. They were usually suspended on a rope and left dangling behind the front windshield.

It was mostly agreed upon that people have these objects hanging on their mirror because it reflected their personality. A cheerful person may have a large pair of smiling lips suspended in his car. Then again, a sexy and spicy person may hang a garter from his mirror.

On the other hand, one may have an object hanging in the car to provide protection. Junior, I-Fen Chiang had a symbol of protection and harmonious peace dangling from her rear view mirror. "It can protect me from serious accidents," she believed. "I feel safer now when I'm driving." The design of the object may have differed, but its main principle was to ensure safety.

However just the opposite can occur when the object hanging from your rear view mirror obstructs your sight. Some items may be illegal, for they become hazardous to driving.

Americanization

an enlightenment to culture

Every junior student had to go through a phenomenon known as "Americanization" to become a senior. Both history and English covered American writers and events. The only real difference in the classes was the way the teachers approached the subject.

In history class, one could expect to learn dates, occupations of people, and how these people affected the events of history. Awareness of the government was stressed. With this insight, one could be better prepared to vote and possibly contribute to the nation.

In English, students studied t writings of historical figures. Lear ing vocabulary also diminish barriers.

Juniors were often found w three chapters of history homewo and a test on one hundred pages literature. Without all th homework, they might not ha been as aware of the things arou them.

To represent the class of 1990 were the Sophomore class officers, President, Sarah Wingate, Vice-President Heather Ellis, Secretary, Nancy Wass, and Treasurer, Janet Lee. With the help of their advisors Ms. Lubarsky and Mrs. Irvine, they tried to make 1988 an explosive year.

One of the Sophomore class's accomplishments was selling M & M's during the weeks of November 23-December 4. The M & M's were sold to sponsor the Sweetheart's Dance on February 26.

Being an officer for the Sophomore class was a blast, but also required many hours of wor and persistance. Team work and a abundance of talent was the key t their success. "Everybody was eage to help," indicated President, Sara Wingate when asked about the o ficers, "They are all very talented."

The class of 1990 proved the spirit when they won most of th competitions at the Halloween rall The upperclassmen may believe th sophomores are still "little babies but the class of 1990 knew the re truth!

Just for the Jolt of it

a Caffeine Explosion

Wanna get a little high? Wanna go ver the edge? C. J. has just the for-ıula to give you that electrifying ensation! Introducing Jolt Cola, the cola that pulls no punches," reated by Carl J. Rapp of ochester, New York.

Jolt represents the soft drink with ll the sugar and twice the caf-ine." Yes, the Jolt Corporation ide itself on its real cane sugar, ther than the less expensive corn rup used by its competitors, and 9 milligrams of caffeine, just 0.1 illigram below F.D.A. standards. nough its contents may sound like re sugar water, "it tastes just like gular coke . . . if anything, it's less sweet," objected senior Amy Edgington.

With the success of its trial release in the spring of 1986 in Rochester, Jolt entered supermarkets nationwide early in 1987. Its publicity has been limited, but word-of-mouth has brought it critical acclaim among teenagers. "If you wanna get that instant 'bing' sensation, you should try Jolt," advised senior Mary Dole.

Worthy or not of any recognition, Jolt has suddenly become all the rage. However, students agree it is just a fad and will not last long. Sorry Jolt you've fizzled out with the new generation.

How Sweet It Is

Sophomores go bananas

Sophomores love to get out and elax around — food. Not just any ood will do, however. Most ophomores selected the Banana plit as the traditional respite from tudies and the demands of omework. When asked about the deal Banana Split, however, the ophomores did not agree. Opinions aried from simple to unbelievable. ome sample recipes were:

obby Jones — One cup of hot fudge and one cup of fresh strawberries.

Tammy Daighean — Two scoops of green mint ice cream and the two largest bananas you can find.

Patrease Hill — Two scoops of french vanilla ice cream and one very large bowl.

Leea Tonts — One cup of hot caramel and one cup of mini-marshmallows.

Rod Miner — One cup of chocolate chips and two scoops of Oreo ice cream.

The Essence

of being sweet sixteen

Sweet sixteen is a very special time for a girl. It seems to be the time which separates the younger teenage years from the older. Traditionally, sweet sixteen is a time in which a young girl blossoms into womanhood. It is a time for romantic styles of clothing such as lacy dresses, mostly in pastel colors, and long hair worn with a ribbon. Long walks in the park with a boy and romantic boat rides are also a part of being sweet sixteen.

However, in modern times, a girl of sweet sixteen has begun to present her independence more than ever before. This may be demonstrated by getting a job, looking forward to a car, more responsibilities, parental respect of her views, and having a steady boyfriend. Forget the soft romantic styles, girls today wear "kick-back" styles such as sweats and leather skirts. While others still resort to soft pastel sweaters and informal dresses.

Whether following traditional ideals or breaking away to the contemporary, being "sweet sixteen" remains a special time for all girls to remember forever.

Upland's Youngest

Four year-old sophomores

Four year olds at Upland High . . . at? . . . wait a minute . . . that's possible!! But not for Marla and slye Saperstein whose birthdays e on Feburary 29, 1972. Being rn on a leap year satisfied their sire to be very unique.

Marla, the elder by four minutes, very outgoing and loves dramatic s, while Leslye is very shy and efers to compete in athletics. wever, they always compete for nds as well as for the better de.

Marla and Leslye consider emselves more as best friends than as sisters. Though they are identical in looks, the Saperstein twins are total opposites in every way. They both have very different personalities, as well as very different interests. Marla added, "We like being individuals and living separate lives."

Since their birthdays only come once every four years, they usually celebrate it on Feburary 29 or March 1, depending on which ever one is more convenient. So who said four year-olds can't be in high school?

Class of '91

Here to have fun

The freshman class officers entered Upland High with feelings of fear. They soon learned that being a freshman was something to be proud of. Their goal was to get the rest of the freshmen class to have more pride in their status. Michelle Altmyer, President; Merilynne Altmyer, Vice-President, Alison Norell, Treasurer, and Jennifer Cushnie, Secretary were proud to lead the class of 1991. These representatives wanted their class to be more spirited and involved. "I want all freshmen to look back on the year and smile!" exclaimed Michelle Altmyer.

The freshmen class officers were unique because the President and Vice-President were twins. They claimed that they could have never won without each other's support. Alison Norell, the Treasurer, was really looking forward to the Freshman Pickle Sale. She hoped to break the pickle selling record. At the beginning of the year they looked forward to their Homecoming float, but Mother Nature disappointed them. "I just wish we could have run our float. We had such good ideas. Maybe we'll pass them on to next year's officers," stated Jennifer Cushnie when asked about the Homecoming Floats.

These four girls had put their heads together to make 1987-1988 a fantastic freshman year. With their dedication, they managed to turn their goals into reality.

Future Plans

College, careers, and fun

Upon entering Upland, many eshmen were preoccupied with the ıstle and bustle of the youthful gh school atmosphere. Although any freshmen were concerned with tting a date to a dance or finding a le home from school, some ninth aders were aware of the realities at the future held for them. For the ost part, the freshman class put rth their best foot academically in eparation for their future. though college planning was not der way, members of this energetic ss were thinking about what kind of a career they would strive for. In some instances, freshmen predicted their future jobs based on what they enjoyed doing. Paul Hernandez stated, "I wanted to be a professional skater because it is entertaining." Other freshmen had chosen a profession that would be financially stable such as a doctor or lawyer. Regardless of what the class of '91 will be doing in the future, we can all be sure that they will enjoy life.

Embarrassments

They're All Part of Life

Everyone always says, "The first day of being a freshman is the worst. It gets better as the year goes on." Not all freshmen would agree with the first part, but a lot would insist it gets worse. Sure, finding classes got easier and getting a group of friends cannot be too hard; it is the upperclassmen that truly make them nervous.

Christy Jamison recalls her first day as a freshman. She was in biology. She, like many freshmen, lost her way in this maze of hallways and classrooms and was late to her class. The teacher had started the class on time so when she walked in she was face to face with a classroom full of sophomores and juniors. Christy was determined to be cool, but her feet would not cooperate. She fell flat on her face. Blushing, she stumbled to her seat while the sophomores and juniors laughed heartily.

Although experiences like these were not daily occurrences, they were the fruits of a memorable year for the class of '91.

something new

When members of the freshman class were asked how they felt about the start of the school year, they responded . . .

David Brady — "The start of the school year was a new experience."

Norman Conway — "Freshman year was casual, a normal start of the day."

Shad Stilky — "The work was a lot harder, and there were more people."

Matt Wenger — "It was cool, a lot bigger than my Jr. High."

Stacey Guzman — "I dislike homework, and the classes are harder."

Michelle Bell — "I don't mind being a freshman."

Ginger May — "There is not really anything terrific about it."

Heather Richardson — "I was excited and nervous to start high school, I didn't think I'd like it, but it's great."

Justin Jones — "My older brother said it would be like this."

Michelle Altymer — "High school is pretty fun; it's a big change from Pioneer, but I think it's great."

Stacie Shiro — "Being a freshman is a little degrading, but Upland High is super."

As a way of getting parents inolved in school activities, I.C.C. parcipated in the Back to School ight. All the clubs set up booths nd passed out flyers to introduce nd answer questions about their ubs. Back to School Night's sucess proved I.C.C. was going to have supurb year.

Being I.C.C. President meant, "A lot of paperwork," laughed Amy. "It was really hard in the beginning, but now it's easy because we all agree most of the time." Amy went on emphasizing, "I'm really proud of the presidents; they do their jobs."

The I.C.C. members discussed and asked questions about their clubs. What started as a way of meeting new people ended up as a way of getting the clubs closer and more involved in U.H.S.

Slamming through the year,

Athletics Builds Character

Are there any athletes out there??? Hiking club and Varsity Club were made up of students who loved the outdoors and participating in sports. Even though Unification changed some things, these two clubs were still here for interested students.

As a $1.00 fee charge for admission, President — Wileen Wong, Vice-President — Alex Quici, Secretary/Treasurer — Cynthia Monahan, and Advisor — Mr. Steve Levy, planned hiking trips. Meeting every Friday before a hike, they needed at least five people to go, but that wasn't very difficult because all of the members loved to hike. "The whole purpose was to have fun and to get along in nature," as Wileen concluded.

Varsity, on the other hand, was specifically for varsity letter holders only. The combined talents of girls' athletics and boys' athletics allowe the Varsity Club to function throug 1988 as strong as ever. Even thoug the meetings varied in time and loca tion, Presidents — Wendy Mc Callum and David Hesseltine Secretary — Erica Finley Treasurer — Pam Magdych, an Advisor — Mr. Murl Miller, a complished many tasks lik establishing sports jacket colo white and green, rather than la year's gold and green. Varsity he many games like half-court sho tournaments and donkey basketba Varsity's first year was difficult, b the word around was "Teamwork!!

Hiking and Varsity members kn that school didn't have to me merely stuffy and boring classroon but, through club activities life co be fun and free.

Common goals cause club

to Foster Community

What did Girls' League and Key Club have in common? Well, they both performed services to improve the school and community. The Girls' League was wrapped around school services while Key Club was busy with community services.

Girls' League was made up of hard working, fun loving girls who wanted to get involved in school activities. President — Mary Doyle, Vice-President — Denise Teghtmeyer, Co-Secretaries — Wileen Wong and Jocelyn Arellano, Treasurer — Avani Patel, and their advisors Mrs. Peggy Toney and Mrs. Marie Copeland helped U.H.S. run smoothly.

During their evening meetings twice a month, they planned the Father-Daughter Banquet, the Fall Backwards Dance, the Mother-Son Banquet, and the Mother-Daughter Banquet. They also gave away five $200 scholarships at the end of the year. The Girls' League gave t members a chance to help t school.

While Girls' League helped U.H.S the Key Club was swamped trying improve the community. As smaller version of the Kiwanis Clu President — Malcom Cross, Vic President — Mimi Swenso Secretary — Marsha Graha Treasurer — Tracey Hart, and A visors — Mr. Bill Horn and M Pedvin spent every Wednesd thinking up new ways to impro the community. Whether visiting convalescent homes, parking ca or donating money to the Builde Club at Pioneer Jr. High, only o word came to Malcom's mi "Generosity."

Teens Learn Abou Themselves

For those students with artistic flair, there were a variety of choices of clubs on campus. They could join the Art Club, the Dance Club, or the Drama Club depending on interest. All of these clubs tried to help students find their style and improve it.

In its first year, the art club planned to finish murals and to go on sketching trips. As Mr. Boyd Nyberg stated, "The Art Club only acts as a catalyst for students interested in the arts."

Every Wednesday, the club assembled where the officers, President — Lathum Nelson, Vice-President — Brandi Hoffman, Secretary — Ruth Indicate, and Treasurer — Keele Gibson maintained order during regular meetings.

From still art to the art of motion, the Dance Club proved to students that dancing could be fun to watch. Advised by Mr. William Henk meetings were open to anyone i terested in ballet.

With Mrs. Cindy Little as a visor, the Drama Club supported t Entourage Troupe and met once month in the auditorium. The cl went to the tapings of "M Belvedere" and "Married Wi Children," visited the N.B. Studios, and watched a play. Dram Club officers were President Jocelyn Arellano, Vice-Preside — Jenni Atchison, Secretary Kelly Schwalbach, and Treasur — Wendi Frankson.

All of these clubs tried to intere everyone involved. Placing mo reliance on students and achievi their goals, the clubs helped t students develop interst in the potential careers.

Being Different Is OK

A.F.S. and B.S.A. opened the doors of countries and of people, to expose them to other cultures and different lifestyles. They represented a coalition of young and old working together to unify a world of differences into a common humanity.

Students reach out

To Change Their World

There was a growing interest at Upland High for students to gather together with the intention to help others and themselves. Three new clubs were formed for this purpose.

For students who aimed to be informed , there was Social Awareness. It focused on "getting students aware of what was around them," explained president, Paul Andreano.

Social Awareness did quite a bit, despite their small size. They worked with the Sierra Club and the Audobon Society, held a symposium on water pollution, and spoke with an expert on the problems of Nicaragua. Their weekly meetings were advised by Mr. Dick Farland.

S.A.D.D. was another young club that was formed by concerned students to combat the serious problem of drinking and driving among high school students. Mrs. Margie Lindstrom and Mrs. Lorna Holt were the advisors. President, Mike Beltran felt that S.A.D.D. was not condemning drinking, but he said, "Just don't drink and drive." The most memorable event S.A.D.D. sponsored was Red-Ribbon Week. During that week, students and faculty wore red ribbons to show they were anti-drug and anti-drinking. They also sold friendship bands to raise money, went to local junior high schools to discuss the dangers of drinking and driving, and began a safe-ride program.

"Peer Counseling was a club developed to build a better understanding between ourselves and others," commented president, Danny Goetsch. They held weekly meetings to discuss a variety of issues that peer counselors may encounter. In addition, they held individual workshops in order to learn more about oneself.

Any way you add it up,

Business Makes the Future

"What are the answers to these problems: the integral of x from one to five?" "What is the interest on one thousand dollars which was put in the bank with the interest rate of three point five percent per year?" "What is the byte?" "What are all these zeros and ones standing for?" These were questions encountered by students who were involved in the Math Club, Future Business Leaders of America, and the Computer Club.

Computer Club acquainted students with various computer languages including Pascal, Fortran and Cobalt. The club also introduced many other complimentary pieces to be added to the computer including the modem, printer, and hand controller.

Future Business Leaders of America helped students to develop their leadership skills. This nation-wide organization attended many business conferences.

Math Club was a newly organized club advised by Mr. and Mrs. David Geisler. They believed the club helped students to solve difficult math problems. They sponsored California Math League and Atlantic-Pacific Math League contests.

These three organizations joined together to make the business of the future.

Students gather for

a Meeting of the Minds

The purpose of G.A.T.E. was to "learn through first hand experience" as the club's President, Annie Wu, phrased it. This could be said of not only G.A.T.E., but also C.S.F. and C.B.S., two other similar clubs. All three clubs worked to gain knowledge and reach future goals. G.A.T.E. had the largest number of members, considering every student in the G.A.T.E. program was a member. They held meetings on Wednesdays when necessary and sold Thanksgiving Grams to raise funds. They also held several debates and attended a play. Mr. Jon Wenrick was their advisor, with Vice President Cynthia Monahan, Treasurer Kimberly Huang, and Secretary Avani Patel as the club officers.

California Scholarship Federation's goal was to "give the opportunity for the academic enhancement of the club members," stated President Po-Sun Chen. The club's advisor was Elaine Mar, with Hilary Han as Vice President, Peter Chuang as Treasurer, and Claudia Foo as Secretary. Unfortunately, C.S.F. got off to a late start, but later in the year, the club went to an amusement park, attended a Dodger game, and held a fund raiser. One of the unique things they did was to make students more aware of the many scholarships available.

College Bound Students was the most recent club formed by Shani Castaldi and Anne D'Arcangelo. It was formed by students who had a strong interest in a college education and wanted a way to explore all of their options. Forming a club gave the students an opportunity to work together on things such as the many forms seniors are given and SAT preparation. They had speakers come and lecture on various college topics, and met when necessary to organize upcoming events. They also held a dance in spring to raise funds.

Enlightenment

Through Experience

"What is M.U.N.?" "What is Mock Trial?" and "What is Academic Decathlon?" These were the first reactions expressed by students when they first heard about these unusual organizations, two of which were new to the Upland campus. All three organizations had one thing in common, they were all involved in intense competition.

Model United Nations was advised by Mr. Randal Haggard, "Model United Nations acquainted students with international affairs and diplomacy by engaging them in situations which required United Nations procedures," explained Mr. Haggard.

Mock Trial introduced the complexities of the American legal system, providing experience for legal argument, poise and confidence in a courtroom situation.

Academic Decathlon was composed of six members who competed in ten different catagories ranging from essay to economics. After four months of preparation, Upland placed eighth in the county competition, winning first place in mathematics and interview, and second place in fine art and language and literature.

These three hard working groups motivated the competitive spirit on campus. They also brought forth the improvement of academic skills.

For the staff of Plaid

News Is the Facts of Life

The Plaid, a bi-weekly correspondence which covered events on campus, has been an informative and influential newspaper for many students. News was at its best when reported by the talented journalists of the class.

Everyone had one main goal in his job: to report the "facts." It was necessary to write in a professional manner acceptable to journalistic standards. "I think it's a good learning experience," declared June Wang. "I have improved (on my writing)."

In addition, Plaid has given its reporters free self-expression through their writings. As expressed by Po-Sun Chen, "I think Plaid is the ultimate way to express my literary thoughts on campus. It's a great way to vent your feelings."

However, once stories were writ ten, a great deal of the work la upon the editors. They were respon sible for editing, layout designs, pic tures, cut-lines, and much more Editors also worked hard to improv the quality of what was reported Basically, they made up the core o the newspaper. Stress may hav been in the way, but obstacles wer easily overcome. "Yeah, there (stress), but I can deal with it, so of," proclaimed Wileen Wong Features Editor.

"The best part about it is tha when we have to stay 'til 10 o'cloc into the night for a rush layout," e uded News Editor Avani Patel, "M Wenrick helps out by getting u some pizza."

All Wrapped Up

"No, you can't say that it's Yearbook cliché," "It's Hielan not Hellen!" and "The deadline is this Thursday," were a few of the quotes that were heard regularly during the times of preparation for the 1988 Hielan. A staff of twenty-one was led by editors-in-chief, Jenny Bales and Annie Wu and advised by Mr. James Hill. Dedication to perfection kept the Hielan staff on the run in search of the perfect quote and the ideal candid. A compilation of creative thoughts and diverse outlooks were used to create an annual that expressed the trends and viewpoints of students in 1988. The thirty-third volume of the Hielan was made larger in three areas. First, thirty-two pages were added; second, the publication was enlarged from 8½" x 11" to 9" x 12"; and third, a special eight page fold out was added to create an image journalistic perfection. Every aspe of the Hielan was created a designed by Upland students. Ea member of the staff endured lo hours of brain storming, typi feature stories, and designing pag to produce the '88 Hielan. As ea student engaged himself in the ye book's completion, he becar wrapped up in the spirit of learni from experience and of investigati every aspect of activities, studen and faculty members that played i portant roles in making the histo of the 1987-88 school year.

From organizations emerge

Inexhaustible Energy

In 1988, the best part of Upland was its diversity of U.H.S. students represented through the involvement of various clubs. Whether the clubs were young or old, each had a uniqueness that stood out above the rest. Unity within each group was the secret that brought personality to Upland.

Unification created new clubs with new ideas and new advisors. Dance, Art, Social awareness, and C.B.S. were some of them. Difficulties plagued them in the beginning, but their ideas boldly stood out to prove that the young will survive. Even fo S.A.D.D., students united for Re Ribbon Week to show their oppositi to substance abuse. There was no one elite club, but instead 21 ver determined clubs each wanting to d their best.

Whichever club anyone joined there was always a feeling of com araderie all around. While meetin new people and making specia friends, each student participated i a club to show his everlasting spir to U.H.S.

Guidance and Skill Bring Victory

Often recognized for excellence, in athletics, the Scots devasted other teams of the Baseline League with their spirit, power, and skill. Under the guidance of a new Athletics Director, Upland faced a fresh mob of athletes recruited by Unification. With the various activities Upland had to offer, Scots were All Wrapped Up in the many athletic opportunities open to them.

It's Not Whether You Win or Lose

It's How You Play the Game

The varsity football team spent the year trying to rebuild their strength as a team, rather than trying to achieve the league title. Coach Merandi stated, "The strongest part of the team was the players' willingness to work and try to improve their area techniques." Even though the overall results were not outstanding, the players' attitude was very impressive. Merandi commented, "No matter what happened, the players wanted to practice and work to get better." The quality of the players' academic achievement should not be overlooked. After comparing the overall grade point average at the beginning of the season which was set 2.3 to the overall G.P.A. at the end of the season, rising to a 2.78, it seems the field was not the only place where the team gave their all. The players also learned what hard work was and now know what it will take to capture the league title next year.

Tackling the season,

Their Dedication Aims Toward Success

The Junior Varsity Football team gave their all and still ended up short. Despite the low scoring season, player Vache Tashjiam replied, "Even though we weren't too good, we had fun." They had a strong defense and were trained by Coach Doc Holiday and Coach Gary Winstead. Even though the season was not the best, many players were ready to move up to Varsity and give it their all.

While winning the game was the goal, working hard and showing great potential was the freshman football teams success. The long summer and afterschool practices paid off with a perfect record of 5 and 0. However, like the did saying goes, "All good things must come to an end." The freshman team was unable to keep up their remarkable title. Many of the players from the frosh starting line were injured and were unable to finish out the season. Remarkably, they were able to end the season at 5 and 5.

Coaches Ray Ottesen and Shawn Kreman felt the frosh team had much more potential than their record showed. "They worked hard at practices and developed great skill," replied Coach Ottesen.

Upland Tennis takes it

Over the Net Game, Set, Match

The element of surprise was with the 1987 Women's Tennis Teams. With the Varsity's defeat of highly ranked Claremont, the team was off to a flying start. "This year the whole attitude about tennis was different — practices were a lot harder, and more emphasis was put on winning," claimed senior Caroline Rauffi. The coaches behind the new attitude, Bob Holycross, and Lani Felberg felt it was important to encourage the girls to take the game seriously and put forth their very best efforts.

Practices consisted of running, stretching, fundamental drills, and competition with penalty laps for those not giving it their all. With these new regulations it would seem that the teams never had time for fun and frolic, but this was certainly never the case. "Even though Mrs. Felberg worked us hard we still had time to enjoy ourselves, and the game of tennis," stated sophomore Sarah Wingate.

The hard work put forth by coaches and players paid off. Upland's Varsity squad watched as their doubles team of Debbie Krygel and Kristen Gamble advanced into the first round of C.I.F. play. Women's tennis in 1987 was a mixture of hard work, and old-fashioned fun with neither dominating the scene.

Determination Bring About Championship Season

The Varsity Water Polo team had a rewarding season, as the Scots won the title of Baseline League Champs, along with Claremont. This was a feat that has not been accomplished by one of Upland's water polo teams since 1978. They had a record of 16-5 which took them to C.I.F.

The season was one of determination and teamwork. Coach Victor Miller led the squad to their goal of C.I.F. Players Axel Araquistian, Jeff Darney, and Scott Boen were great contributors to the team's efforts, as they made All-League, first team. Other contributing factors to the team's excellence were it's gre swimming abilities, and the e perienced team members. Th commitment to excellence mea waking up early for a morni workout, and ending the school d with another one. Both of which co sisted of practicing water polo ski and tough swimming drills. Spe was stressed this season, as well teamwork. When asked who th toughest rivals were this year, Coa Miller replied, "It would have to Claremont, and Palos Verde Coach Miller looked forward another championship season.

"Setting" the pace

for a Season of Unprecedented Surprises

A season of change and a competitive spirit, the Varsity Volleyball team endured through triumph and defeat. Under the new direction of Coach Randy Ittner, the girls gave their all in trying situations. Skill and knowledge were the key factors that led the Varsity Volleyball team to victory. As any good coach would do, Coach Ittner worked the ladies hard on the individual fundamentals as well as playing as a single unit — a whole team. Although the team was composed of younger players, a virtually sophomore-junior team, experience was on their side. Girls returning to the Varsity team as well as those who played on the Junior Varsity and Freshman teams in previous years brought their expertise to continue the Upland tradition of outstanding performance in Varsity Volleyball.

Bump, set, spike

A Winning Tradition Lives on

A season of ups and downs, sets and spikes, and victories and defeats embodied the result of the Junior Varsity and Freshman Volleyball teams.

Coach Randy Ittner and Coach Kathy Bell used every technique to teach the young ladies the fundamentals of the sport as well as what it took to be winners. Hard practices and intense competitions were the foundations to success. Constructed mostly of sophomores, the Junior Varsity team had the a vantage of experienced returni players.

Unlike the Varsity Volleyball tea these younger girls had a lot to lea but they were all excited to hit t court and perform at their best le of competition. Following the sta dard set by previous teams, t Junior Varsity and Freshman tea executed perfection behind the net

Around the Competition

The Junior Varsity and Soph/Frosh Cross-Country teams were undefeated while the Junior Varsity team completed each meet with perfect scores. Coach Bob Loney hoped that these teams would follow the winning tradition that had been set before them. The Junior Varsity teams were also dual meet champions, winning the Mt. Sac Invitational and the Kenny Staub Invitational. The teams concluded t season as league champions. Coa Loney stated, "It was the best thr mile Junior Varsity team we ever hac and added, "two sophomores and s freshmen earned varsity letters." E cellence prevailed and the champio ship tradition continued with t 1987-88 Cross-Country teams.

Steps Out to Set a Winning Pace

Usually a team that was as young d inexperienced as this one does not ish the season with a winning cord. The Girls' Junior Varsity oss-Country Team was an exception this rule.

This team with only five returning embers still managed to perform at best. Their outstanding performance placed them in third place at e Baseline League Finals, League uals, and the Chaffey District vitational.

The season began slowly with close losses to Alta Loma and Pomona. This losing streak did not last long, for the team achieved perfect scores of 15 in their next five competitions.

Each member had to run at least 10 miles a week, with practice routes often ranging from the top of Euclid and back down to school. All this was nothing as Krista Robb acknowledged, "The feeling of victory wiped away the trials of practice."

The 1987 Cross-Country season went well for runners in the Baseline League. The program was one of the best in the league under the direction of Coach Robert Sprung. He devoted much of his time encouraging the athletes, as well as helping them get their feet going again when they were discouraged.

"Cross-Country is an individual sport, meaning that it's just you against the clock . . . Cross-Country eventually becomes personal and helps the individual inside," stated Coach Sprung.

The beginning

of a New Tradition of Excellence

"We want to turn the attitude around," declared Coach Greg Wuetcher. With the training of Coach Wuetcher and Assistant Coach Fred Easton, the Men's Varsity Basketball team strove toward building a new spirit and viewpoint in the school with an energetic and valiant season.

Besides emphasizing a more aggressive defense, punctuality, neatness, determination, and pride were stressed at each day's two-hour practice. Their three goals were to enter the second round at the Montclair — Upland Tournament, achieve a .500 league record, and enter C.I.F. play-offs.

Co-captains Keith Roessler, Kevin Roessler, and Jordan Smi each worked closely with the rest the team to create a family a mosphere. "We're all one," expla ed Coach Wuetcher. "There's pri on every level." The united tea spent the year fighting back a reshaping their past reputation. "I different now . . . When we go out that court, we expect to win. W don't expect to lose," affirm Smith.

With a vigorous and impressi season, the Men's Varsity Basketb team brought a renewed enthusia back to basketball. "We did together!" exclaimed Smith.

Tight Defense and Baseline Threat

Under the guidance of new paches, Coach Robert Levi and Coach Rick Neault, the Men's unior Varsity and Frosh Basketball eams shot towards new skills and oals.

Working out through two hours of ractice every day, the J.V. team orked on layups and free-throws hile also stressing defensive skills. ontinuous laps around the gym, ecame the most beneficial element f practices. "We don't get tired as uch when we're on the court," confessed co-captains Daron Chambliss and Ryan Finley.

Facing their most difficult opposition, Damien and Glendora, the J.V. aimed towards winning their two tournaments, winning at least half of their league games, and becoming Baseline League champs.

The Frosh team began the season by placing second in the Claremont Freshmen Tournament. Thanks to key players, Damon Bingham and Dennis Baranowski, the team battled their strongest opponents, Alta Loma and Claremont. A tight defense and patient offense were the Frosh's best assets in frustrating other teams.

Practicing one and a half hours each day, they enforced skills in screening out and patience in taking shots.

Working well with their coaches, the Junior Varsity and Frosh were tough teams of young men who easily became a threat to other teams of the Baseline League.

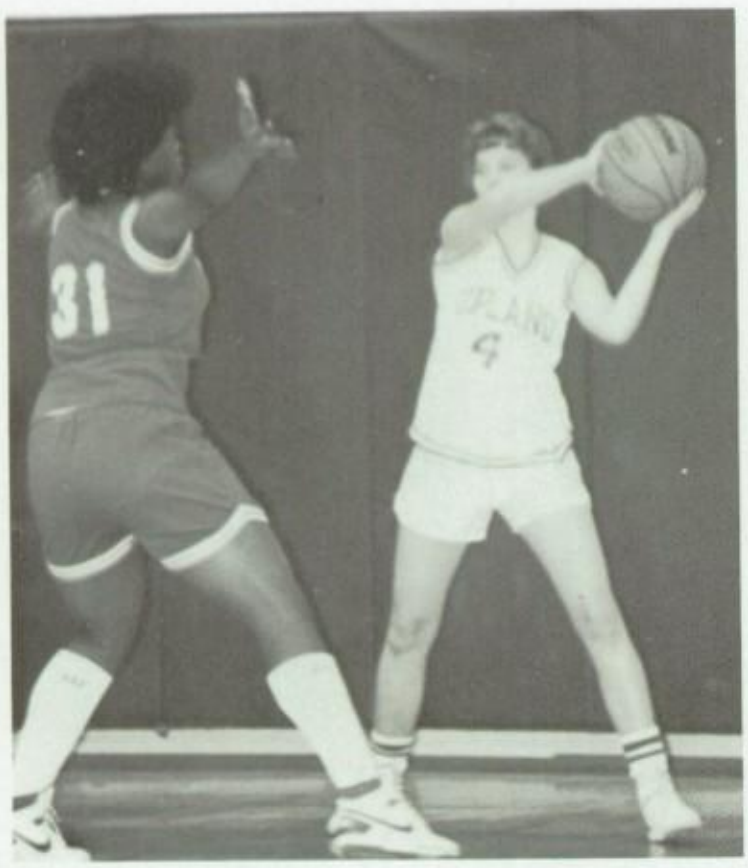
Coach's win-win strategy promotes

Learning, Enjoyment and Victory



The Women's Varsity Basketball team was impressive, as their record showed. They adapted very easily to first year coach, Coach Kathy Bell. Their goals were to make C.I.F. and to develop a unified team. Besides teamwork, other strengths and positive aspects were the team's height, quickness, devotion, and willingness to learn and work hard. Shooting, pressing, defense, and fast breaking were the areas of concentration. Among players who worked hard at these skills were Kim Gessig — center and forward, Chrissy Morgan — point guard, Kristy Jones — center and forward, and Keisha Morris — wing.

Coach Bell had unique ways teaching the players. She had a fo mula which helped make the gam more fun and interesting: ' something is fun, you will learn; you learn, you will win; if you win, is fun." In addition to winni games, the team also gained valu such as teamwork, accepting losse and looking for the good in things.

It was coaches like Coach B who made athletics a rewarding e perience, and players like hers w displayed the sportsmanship th keeps the spirit of the game alive.

Results in Record Breaking Season

The Women's Junior Varsity Basketball team really came together as a team. Their adjustment to Upland's first year coach, Coach Phil De Puy, from Palmdale, was exceptional. "They were easy to work with, and easy to be proud of," stated Coach De Puy. Since the team collaborated so well, Coach De Puy's philosophy was easy to follow — "A player's personal best arises by doing the best he or she can as a team player." In addition to teamwork, shooting and sprinting skills were especially stressed. Three players who displayed skills and teamwork especially well were Melissa Margala — center, Ma Bugalso — point guard, and Alic Mangan — forward.

An accomplished goal for t team was to beat last year's reco of 2-12. The team easily beat breaking the .500 winning avera mark. This was due primarily to th high scoring. Previous teams ha seldom broken 15 points per gam The 28 points per game average w a unique feature which made Coa De Puy extremely proud and lo forward to a second record-breaki season.

At home and away,

Team Members Get a Real Kick

Coach Norell aided by Assistant Coach Mike Sears again led the Men's Varsity Soccer team to many victories in '88. Coach Norell had been a soccer coach for fifteen years, five of which were here at Upland High for Varsity Soccer. The coaches had to choose nineteen players from an extraordinarily large group of 75 boys.

A total of six players returned to the team from last year. Coach Norell's attitude toward coaching was to make the team have a good time. He felt many coaches force the players to give too much time and energy to the team which results in a hatred for the sport. Therefore, he did not exert too much pressure on the players to do their very best, and he understood when they had commitments other than soccer. During the game, however, he expected 100% from each player. This may be the reason why the team did so well.

Their victory over Damien really made the team proud. The team's strength, according to the coaches, was their defense and their centers. The coach also felt that they had greater potential and talent than in past years. Coach Norell hoped to get a good enough soccer team so that guys don't switch to Damien from Upland just for a better soccer team.

The Men's Junior Varsity and Freshman soccer teams proved to be tough to beat. The Junior Varsity team was led by a new coach, Pete Petrillo. According to several players, Coach Petrillo worked them hard but was very fair. Coach Petrillo had previously coached the girls' soccer team at Chaffey, and was new to the Upland coaching staff.

The Junior Varisty team consisted of many sophomores and four or five juniors. The twenty-two players were chosen from a group of forty who tried out. "It was a really hard job trying to choose only twenty-two players because most of the people who tried out were really good, stated Coach Petrillo. He was prou of each person who tried out. Coac Ittner believed that the team wa composed of very skilled player but he also hoped that they woul get tougher in game situations.

Coach Petrillo made sure tha each of the players kept their grade up and enforced a strict rule that the grades dropped, the player d not participate. Overall, the dedic tion of the players and the coach made the season the success that was.

Mighty women's soccer

Kicks Their Way Into C.I.F. Finals

The women's Varsity soccer team started out a great season with a 3-0 win against Bishop Montgomery High School. They were successfully defended by fullbacks Jennifer Vermillion, Melissa Mowery, Wendy Carmona, Heather Watson, and goalkeeper, Lisa King. Not to mention the offensive team, which had great speed and was led by Christine Kelly and Deana D'Andrea.

Fortunately, the players worked well together as a team. When Coach Andy Gessig was asked about team weaknesses he replied, "We have no glaring weaknesses. Sometimes getting motivated against a weaker opponent causes problems, but not to any great degreee." As a coach, Mr. Gessig tried to improve the players' physical skill level through good productive practices, constant workout on their mental aspects of the game, and greater awareness of their individual role. They were also prepared to be motivated for each opponent.

The strength of the team was shown as the season was completed with 9 wins and 1 loss. They pushed for C.I.F. Champions but lost 0-1 to Capistrano Valley High School in their second C.I.F. game. Even though they did not win C.I.F. the Junior Varsity and Varsity Women's Soccer Team brought great pride and appreciation to Upland High School.

More than just a game

Wrestling to Win

The Upland Varsity Wrestling team had a spectacular season. It was tough trying out for the team because Coach Gary Winstead was very picky. Eighty players tried out, but only seventy were chosen to be a part of the team. They had an outstanding season with thirty returning wrestlers, twenty-five of whom were letter winners.

When asked what the most difficult game would be, Coach Winstead replied with a sigh, "Alta Loma. We don't play games, we wrestle." The team's greatest strengths were experience, hard work, and dedication. The only weakness was the team's lack of depth, but the wrestlers made up for that when they went to tournaments and won.

This was Coach Winstead's first year of coaching for Upland. He felt that it was important for an athlete to enjoy what he does and to have fun. Coach Winstead pulled the Varsity Wrestling team to a successful season.

Futures are bright

for Wrestlers of Today

The Junior Varsity and Freshman wrestling teams had a great season. Coach Shawn Kreman supported the team through thick and thin." The Freshman team did well, even though they were inexperienced. In the first tournament they took second place against Esperanza High School. The coaches were extremely impressed with the performance of the teams. The most difficult opponent proved to be Alta Loma. Both the Junior Varsity and Freshman teams found strength in togetherness and dedication. Not only did the team want to win, but they also had fun doing it.

Wrestling was a unique sport in that although it was one on one competition, all of the players supported whoever was on the mat.

Building close relation

Track Sprints to Perfection at the Sound of a Gunsho

Enduring long practice hours while beads of sweat soaked their shirts in the afternoon heat, the Men's Varsity Track team tried hard to perfect their sport by working laboriously with only Sundays off. Students who wanted a varsity letter, a league patch, a C.I.F. patch, or just to improve and sharpen their skill had to wake up (to practice) early Saturday mornings or to compete in invitational track meets.

The track team had an open sense of humor. When asked what the team's weaknesses were, Coach Bob Loney chuckled "Nothing we admit." Their strengths, however, arose from their coaches. Coach Loney was the boys' head coach and drilled the long distance runner Other coaches included Coac Lefevers, Albert, Marks, Fairfa Sprung, Ottesen, and Poiner wh advised students on sprinting, hurd ing, pole vaulting, discus, shotpu and high jump.

Coach Loney insisted, "We don expect to lose this year." He e pected the highlight of the season be the meets against Damien, who they lost to last year for the first tim in four years.

Their strategy was to "have goo kids in every event." With straigh forward tactics, definite goals, a endless hours of practice, the tea could hardly go wrong.

Junior Varsity Teams Jump Every Hurdle

The Men's Junior Varsity Track eam's desire to become C.I.F. champions challenged the inner strength of ach member. They fulfilled their pact hrough long workouts and willingness o endure daily practices. Their rough chedule was extended to morning ractices for those who wanted to each their limits.

Coach Robert Loney's main trategy was to put good kids in the ght event and to never expect to lose. ome of the competition was difficult, ut the Men's J.V. Track team stablished that the best way to win as to have a winning disposition.

The Women's Junior Varsity Track team consisted of a talented squad of eager young women. According to Coach Robert Sprung, one-fourth were capable of starting at the Varsity level at most other schools. The freshmen and sophomores were the heart of the track program because many showed great potential for years ahead. They put forth as much effort and hard work as the Varsity team and certainly paid their dues.

Working to keep up with the hardy image of the Varsity teams, both the young men and women of the J.V. teams worked like dogs to succeed — Scotties, that is.

The Women's Varsity track team has been reknowned as championship quality in the past and was looked upon similarly this year. Hopes of repeating Baseline League Championship and repeating C.I.F. 3A champs boosted the team's morale. They also drove to have six spots in the State Meet and to place in the top ten. Coach Robert Sprung and his assistants worked out with the girls to help them achieve their goals.

Of the opponents faced in the Baseline League, Claremont and Alta Loma were respectable. "Glendora could be dangerous this year als stated Coach Sprung. "But Cor Del Mar is a real threat, as they pl ed behind us in C.I.F. last year."

Some of the strengths which ai the team were their large num and their exceptional desire courage. The players even ur friends to try out, making track to learn and to win. One of the t Coach Sprung used to help th keep calm and to do their best telling them to go out and have s fun. As long as they had fun, t kept a winning attitude.

Their Way to a Loveless Season

The Men's Varsity Tennis Team in 1988 proved to be as triumphant and as exciting as 1987. Even though many of their top singles players graduated, they were left with strong doubles players. Mr. Paul Trautwein, the coach, felt that tennis was an individual sport, but he encouraged the tennis players to think of themselves as a team. The varsity team practiced at their home court, Upland Tennis Club, almost every afternoon of the season. By the end of the year, all of the hard work and perseverance paid off a the Men's Varsity Tennis Tean played their very best. The varsit players who dared to return from las year were Joe Leatherwood, J. D Salstorm, Keith Roessler, Bria Smith, Chris Carder, David Linberg Brian Bradfield, Roger Chan, Pete Choi, and Tony Wang. The varsit tennis team of 1988 had all of th right ingredients to make a suc cessful team.

Only in Tennis Does Cupid Survive

The junior varsity coach, Mr. Richard Farland, stressed drills in his practices in order to, "perfect their strokes so that they can place their shots with greater accuracy." They practiced almost every day from 2:00 until 4:00 in the afternoon. Claremont and Alta Loma proved to be the team's toughest competition. One player commented, "The practices taught us the fundamental skills of the game." It was this positive attitude that carried the team to success.

Starting their season in a game against Redlands, the Men's Golf teams began competition on February 29. There were five tournaments among league games of the regular season.

Mr. Norm Rush, the new head coach, has been advising golf for four years. He was one of two golf coaches on campus and one assistant from Upland Hills Country Club, their home court.

After February 22, the golfers practiced everyday except on weekends. During the season, their practices consisted of half-hour to one hour workouts, practicing 9 to 18 holes and working out problems like sandtraps and other difficult obstacles.

The Varsity team consisted of the top six players. They had to score approximately one or two strokes from par in order to make the team. To be on J.V. they could score two to three higher, depending on their grade level. To be on Frosh, the coaches picked scores anywhere from 8 to 24 in hopes of finding at least one player with star material.

According to Coach Rush, the only bad thing about Golf was public awareness. "I wish more people knew what a great game it is. We learn more than just golf. We learn how honest we really are because you call fouls on yourself since there are no referees.,"

Womens' Softball Goes Out to the Ball Game

When Coach Phil DePuy talked about the '88 Women's Softball team, he elated that it was made up of a very hopeful group of ladies. The players were very inexperienced with the potential to win league. The team was very solid —— they stuck together and never gave up. The Upland softball team supported a good attitude and used their talent well.

They were doing a very good job. We've had a really steady defense, and the team is excellent." All retur ning players were working hard t improve their skills, timing and coor dination with the ultimate goal of be ing number one.

Coach DePuy had a very positiv attitude for the team since it was hi first year coaching at Upland Hig School. He believed in them all th way. "The girls are very determine to be number one."

Emerging from hardships

Scots Step Out of the Dugout

Upland's baseball program suffered several hardships. Taking a loss of many key players from last year, they had to compensate with extra hard work and motivation. After the loss of Paul Morales, a friend to many and a part of the baseball program, Coach Mike Alonso along with assistants Ruben Lara and Bob Sheridan worked at getting the players' minds back on the ball game. Practicing techniques, and spending many hours at the ball park were part of the Scots' normal routine in reaching their goals.

"Getting a team to hustle and believe that they can win is the key to having a good team," remarked Coach Alonso. Jason Fagundes and Steve Fiorindo, both three-year lettermen, were two major assets to the varsity team. Buddy McCowen's good high school pitching also gave the varsity team a boost. "The team has enthusiasm and a good working ethic," Coach Alonso later replied.

Overall the varsity team pursued a great season, Through positive thinking, hard work, and motivation, the baseball program drove to reach their goals and to do their best for the spirit of the school.

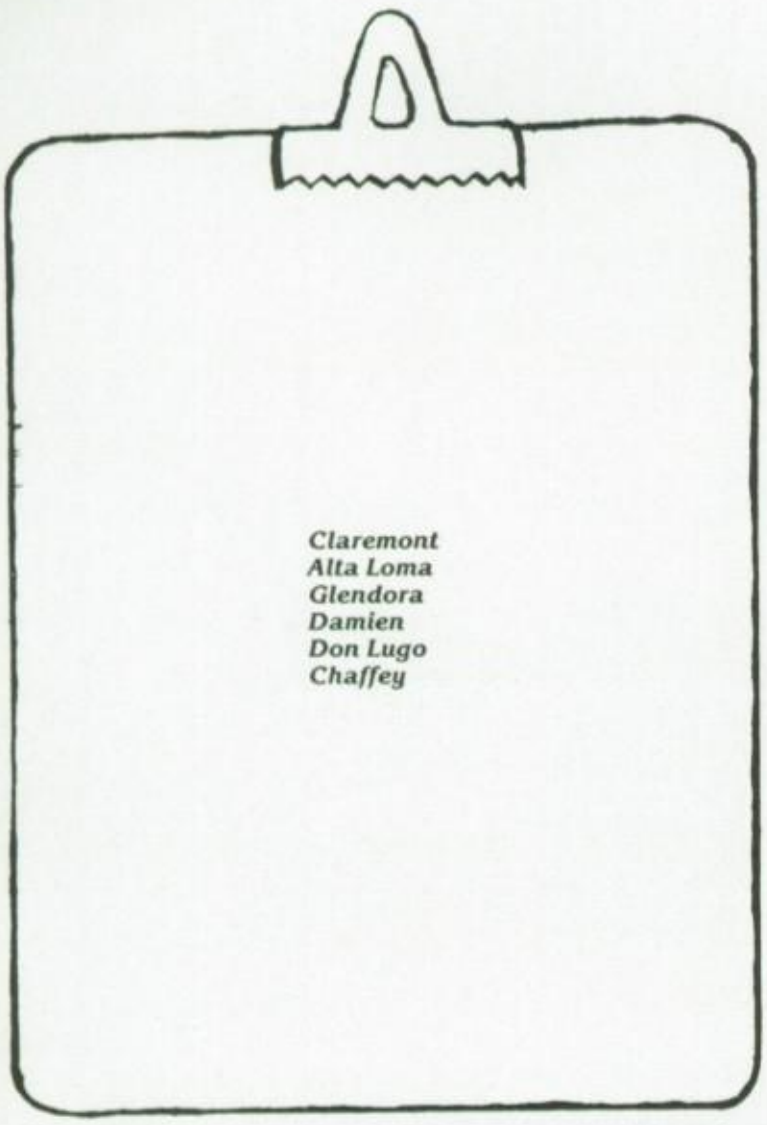
Splishes and Splashes In a Full Pool



The U.H.S. Varsity and Junior Varsity men's swimming teams, under the guidance of Coach Vic Miller, were hopeful about the season. They had about 45 swimmers including thirteen returning members. Some of the important senior contributors to the team were Axel Araquistian, Scott Boen, Eric Degner, Miek Fritz, Brian Hawks, Steve Kodalen, Jason Lehr, Ron Timperio, Gare Gurr and Phil Graham.

In their effort to perform well, they practiced everyday from 6:00-7:30 am and 2:00-3:00 pm. They strived to meet their personal expectations as well as their goals to be first, second or third in League. They improved their quality and technique making the strong team even more invincible.

The most difficult meet was against Damien, but the U.H.S. swimming team was prepared. Coach Miller tried to motivate them by having workouts that pushed them to top performance level. Overall, the season was successful with swimmers qualifying for C.I.F. in individual events: the medley relay and the free-style relay.

Ladies Take to the Waters Their Dedication Spouts Success

As streamlined figures mounted the starting blocks, all eyes focused toward the pool. Then the gun sounded, catapulting the swimmers into the water.

The women's swim team had a goal to achieve excellence. Every spare moment was used during practice to build endurance.

Both the Varsity and Junior Varsity women's teams were very young and inexperienced. Also, the fact that the pool was not filled during the start of the season lessened practice time.

The team may have been young, but Coach Kathy Bell saw many talents that would prove to be successful in later years.

It was agreed that the teams could not have pulled it off without the support of Coach Bell.

Additionally, team spirit kept the swimmers alive. Katie Tinker said, "We have the best team spirit, We are number one in spirit." The teams may not have come in at the top, but each "has improved individually," concluded Katie Baker.

Divers Strive for League. "Good to the Last Drop"

All eyes stared in disbelief. A diver just successfully completed a back flip and received a perfect score. This was exactly what the diving team had in mind, perfection. The diving team's season got off to a late start due to the fact that the pool was being painted. Since there was no water in the pool, the team had less time to practice and prepare for their first meet. Junior, David Fleck felt that diving should be considered a more important sport. Currently, the points the divers received were added to the swim team scores.

The divers had many goals and expectations for their overall performance. Said one team member, "Our main goal was to win." David Fleck felt that the team, as a whole, would do well in League. "The diving team was better this year because it consisted of only those people who really wanted to dive." Several divers were striving for C.I.F. Through many successes, the divers felt good about their season and continued to be a vital addition to our amphibious athletes.

Sports success proves

Uplands Got It All Wrapped Up

"Go Upland!" was a familiar sound emmitted by students and fans alike, cheering for the Scots. After a difficult football season, the school began to have doubts about the 87-88 sports year. Fortunately, the rest of the year proved to be a success as many teams reached the goals which had been set at the beginning of the season.

The Varsity Water Polo team ended their season by capturing the title of Baseline League Champs which returned a lot of the "Upland Pride."

The Women's Varsity Basketball team was blessed with a talented and hardworking new coach, Kathy Bell, who led the team to C.I.F. playoffs.

Men's Volleyball was added to the Upland athletic line-up. Team captain Galo Lopez stated, "We have a good chance of going to C.I.F. playoffs." It was this positive attitude that united out athletes and made them more than players on a field; it make them a team that was proud to wear the Green and White.

Teachers Gear Up For

A New Year

Unification brought forth the loss of 25% of Upland's faculty. However, the call for new staff members was answered by hundreds of educators eager to challenge the rebirth of unified education. Upland was privileged enough to keep Mr. Fisher as principal for another year. In 1988, Highlanders must say farewell to him as he retires from his position. The Hielan staff wishes to honor Mr. Fisher in the Faculty section for all the devotion he has invested into Upland. Thank you and farewell!

When fear of the future raged through Upland High School as to the effects of unification, the Upland Unified School District Office prepared for the unexpected. Under the supervision of a new district, Upland High followed new guidelines and new leaders.

The new supervisors immediately began to plan for the predicted enrollment explosion with portable classrooms and an increased faculty and staff. However, concern arose among Highlanders as to whether or not the newly formed district could tackle the responsibilities of a high school when they only had experience in dealing with junior high and elementary schools. Nevertheless, the fears died when school commenced in September and most problems seemed to be all wrapped up.

Long range plans for the district included restoring older buildings, constructing a 40,000 sq. ft. building north of the administration offices, renovating science laboratories, and "attempting to articulate a program which goes straight through kindergarden to twelve," according to Assistant Superintendent Dr. William May.

The district has been extremely enthusiastic about the challenge. "We're all a part of the same community, and now we're all one," declared May.

The Big One It's the Principal of the Thing That Counts

A dedication to Upland High, its students and its education has brought Principal, Mr. Glenn Fisher, high praises from parents, faculty and students. As Principal at U.H.S. for the past six years, the Hielan staff wishes to honor him as he retires from his lifetime career.

After graduating from Pomona College with a Bachelor of Science degree, Mr. Fisher joined the Chaffey High School District as a social studies teacher at Chaffey High.

In 1982, he accepted the position as Principal at Upland High. Since then, he has devoted himself to improving education.

His most difficult challenge arose last year when Unification passed. Though torn between dedication to the Chaffey district and to Upland High, he chose to remain with the proud green and white.

To the students, Mr. Fisher was always something "special." Forever famous as "Porkchop Fisher" he has consistently encouraged each student to try his best whether academically, athletically, or personally. He happily watched the 1985 Academic Decathlon team win first place in the county, congratulated the sports teams that reached C.I.F., and played the wicked principal in the 1987 play Slow Times at Upland High.

Upland will forever remain a cherished memory in Mr. Fisher's mind as he will continue to be a proud memory to all Highlanders. Best wishes, Mr. Fisher, for a wonderful, and well deserved retirement.

New

Outlook on Higher Education

Among the changes made in Upland's education system, a new way of organized teaching was added. Every section of the school was run by an Instructional Coordinator. (I.C.), a section head who was given certain obligations for running his or her department. Their responsibilities included evaluating each teacher on his/her performance in the classroom, being a link of communication between the teacher and Mr. Glenn Fisher and overseeing class curriculum.

There were six Instructional Coordinators, four of whom had previously taught at Upland High School. Among them, two had held positions as Department Chairmen, the former system which did not involve as much responsibility or personal contact. Mr. Calvin French, previous head of the English Department, was one of these people. He has been working at Upland for twenty-six years and is currently in charge of the English, Speech, Drama, and Journalism departments, while also teaching two A.P. English classes. The other I.C., also a former department chairperson, was Mrs. Margene Raynaud. She was in charge of the Business Department last year, but it now also overseeing the Homemaking, Industrial Arts, and Work Experience departments.

Another person who has been with Upland for some time, but has not been a department chairman was Mr. Dave Mooney. He has taught here for ten years and has assumed responsibility as an I.C. for the Science and Physical Education departments besides teaching A.P. Biology. Having taught at Upland for nine years, Mr. Dave Allen was the Instructional Coordinator of the Learning Center, Mathematics, and Computer departments. He enjoyed seeing the teachers at work and stated, "They seem to be willing to work and teach with this new idea."

Last, but certainly not least, two new members were added to the staff as well. Mr. James Hill joined Upland after spending twenty years at Claremont High School. He was responsible for the Social Studies and Drivers' Education departments, as well as advising the Hielan staff. He seemed to be enjoying the Highlander atmosphere as he commented, "I'm impressed. No two days are alike. It's a whole new challenge." Mrs. Carol Armstrong was the other new member of both staffs. She taught at Cerritos High School before entering Upland. She was in charge of Foreign Language, Art, Music, and Special Education departments. When asked how she enjoyed Upland, her response was, "Everybody is great and I really love it!"

Even though the I.C. system has been a new experience for Upland High School, it has been a great influence on Upland's academic excellence. Hopefully, by next year, all of the details will have been worked out and the new system will be All Wrapped Up.

With the passage of Proposition L, Unification, arose a crucial question in every teacher's mind, to stay with or leave Upland High School. With uncertain promises from both sides of the table, the faculty was unsure of whom to trust. By the end of the '86-'87 academic year, about 25% of Upland's faculty chose to leave and continue with the Chaffey High School District. Positions had to be filled as hundreds of applications and resumes poured into the school, proving Upland's popularity and credibility as a quality school.

As Upland expanded in size and expected enrollment, a greater number of positions opened up. A school of old fashioned traditions gladly welcomed the entrance of 75 new certificated and classified staff members filled with creative ideas toward improving the school spirit, curriculum, and administration.

A sudden feeling of pride for the new school brought enthusiasm and spirit to each new faculty member. Green and white ties, sweaters, jackets and even umbrellas represented their love to a reborn alma mater, one to be proud of.

As Upland High's first year under the new Upland Unified School District pulled to a close, the school proudly recognized its great accomplishments in bringing a community closer together with fond academic ties.

Five Upland High School teachers have more than one thing in common; they are all alumni of U.H.S. and participated in sports.

Paul Robertson a Spanish teacher, graduated from Upland High in 1968. When asked why he chose to teach at U.H.S., he replied, "I really enjoyed Upland High School when I was a student. Of any other school in America, Upland was my choice."

Another Upland alumni was John Glenn, 1971. Upland once had a tradition of having the school's best trombone player play the bugler for reveille every morning before school. John Glenn was the last of the Upland buglers.

Representing the class of 1975 is Vic Miller. He played on both the number one ranked water polo and swim team his junior and senior years. Mr. Miller was excited about coaching our water polo team to a winning season.

Beth Partridge, 1978, has taught for four years at U.H.S. During her high school years, she was active in sports and the student council.

Our final representative is Jayne Albert, 1981. She was a track star and now teaches math. She has always wanted to be a teacher and is now fulfilling her dream at her old alma mater.

El
Amor Del

Español, Nuevo y Viejo

Spanish, is it just another language? Not to some of the faculty who enjoy teaching Spanish to Upland students. While Unification said adios to some of our Spanish teachers last year, it also welcomed many more. The new addition to our Spanish circle brought variation and experience.

Among them were Mrs. de la Cruz who teaches first and second year Spanish. She transferred to Upland from Notre Dame High School where she taught for 6 years. Mrs. de la Cruz loves to travel during the summer and has visited many places like Europe, Spain, and Mexico. She summarized, "My job is always a different learning experience everyday."

Another faculty member who teaches first and second year Spanish was Mrs. Coumes. This was also her first year at Upland. She arrived from McPherson Jr. High. She enjoys the outdoors and goes bicycling and hiking as much as possible. Mrs. Coumes pointed out that she always loved a "challenge" from the students, as well as from her job.

Mrs. Bueno, who chose to stay through Unification, also teaches first and second year Spanish. She quoted, "My job is very interesting and students should study Spanish in order to communicate."

Mr. Robertson teaches first, third and A.P. A veteran teacher at Upland for 9 years, Mr. Robertson enjoys photography and spending time with his two sons. He recapped that his job was "Invigorating." He also added that he stresses "character to learn, to speak, and to understand Spanish."

Our Spanish staff has grown larger in size and in heart this past year because of the staff's common interest in one thing — Español.

New leaders move to Make Upland Better

Mr. Castagnaro, Asst. Principal — I consider this to be a special opportunity for me because Upland is considered one of the best schools in the area.

Mr. Drake, Student Activities — I am enjoying my time here. I found the students to be very cooperative and doing a good job of making the activities run smoother.

Mrs. Henderson, Pep Squad — Taking a group of people joined by a dedication to foster school spirit in an entire student body is not an easy task. The time spent is inconsequential when a pep squad becomes a catalyst that sparks enthusiasm.

Ms. Fairfax, Tall Flags — It's often been difficult to be a new advisor, but the tall flag team has made me feel right at home.

Mr. Soloman, Band Director — The Upland Highland Regiment has made tremendous progress this year. The students involved are among the best on this campus.

The end of the beginning

Sees Success, Accomplishment Through Rebirth

"Go, fight, win tonight . . . boogie down, all right, all right." We sang and cheered supporting our friends and teams to achieve all they possibly could. Not only did the Highlanders succeed academically, but we also upheld our reputation as a strong and prominent school.

Recognized for outstanding academic achievement, Valedictorian Kimberly Huang and salutatorian, John Pilafidis were proof of Upland's determination to continue its quality education.

To satisfy our extra-curricular needs, a wide selection of new and old organizations arose around campus. Meanwhile, the Plaid newspaper staff continued to produce a quality journalistic publication in each bi-weekly edition. Congratulations to the Men's Varsity Water Polo, Cross-Country, Baseball, and Track teams, and the Women's Varsity Soccer and Track teams which won the title of Baseline League Champions and entered C.I.V. play-offs. Recognition also goes to the Men's Varsity Soccer, Wrestling, Golf, Swim, and Tennis teams, and to the Women's Varsity Tennis, Basketball, Softball, and Swim teams which also entered C.I.F. In pursuit of greater communication, U.H.S. planned its first edition of the Literary Magazine, 3 Dimensions of Expression.

With a large number of new athletic coaches, many teams had to adjust themselves to new practice methods and ideas. The change, however, did not affect the continuing endurance of the Scots as many teams excelled on to C.I.F.

The accomplishments of a school reborn by the results of Unification have been amazing. 1988 has been a year filled with fresh and innovative ideas carried out by dedicated students, staff, administration, and community. We've wrapped up the year and said our goodbyes. Congratulations to the success of a unified community looking forward to a sparkling future.

The stress of four years of non stop academics and the suffering o severe cases of Senioritis wa rewarded at the end of the year wit special upperclassman activities. En joying the advantages of being senior, made the last few days o school a little more bearable.

On May 14, couples enjoyed a evening of elegance at the Junio Senior Prom. The Biltmore Bow became "The Time of Our Lives" a couples swayed to the sounds of video D.J.

A month later, Senior Award night honored academic excellenc of students in various areas. Fro the complexities of mathematics an science to the artistic talents drama and art, seniors were awarde for their outstanding scholasti achievements.

Finally, the culmination of ou high school years resulted in gradua tion. As the sun set beyond the ten nis courts, the graduating class 1988 gladly tossed their caps in ex citement as they left the good green and white.

Immediately following com mencement, school buses shippe loads of graduates off to Disneylan to a crowded but magical evening f Grad Nite '88.

Returning late in the morning, w were welcomed back in the cafeter for an early morning continent breakfast. As we picked up ou diplomas, we knew that our hig school years were finally all wra ped up.

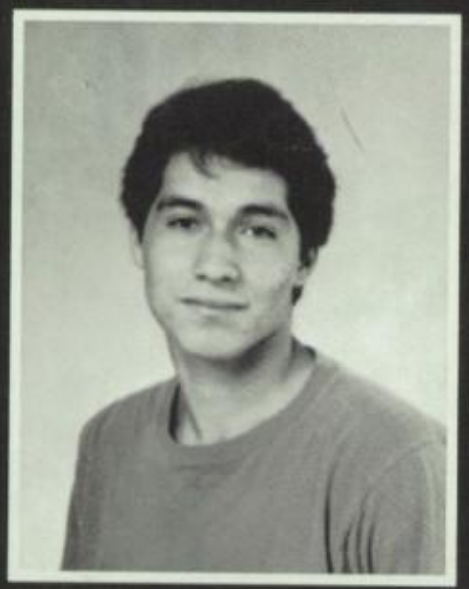
In memorium of Paul Morales,
September 8, 1971,-March 11, 1988



A close friend, a good friend
That's what he was to me
To know him was to love him so easily
He was a friend to all
And a brother to most.
I miss him dearly
For I feel I miss him the most
It is not so, for he was loved
By many far and close.
Some say it was meant to be
I tell myself that can't be true
Because he never deserved to die.
When I think of him I know he is in Heaven
To know he is safe helps a little
But to not hear his voice
Makes it hurt so much more.
May Paul Morales rest in peace.
May he be happy and free.
May he know that I loved him
And respected him so honorably.
God bless you, Paul.

A special tribute

Dedicated to the One We Love

The Hielan yearbook was put together through dedication, skill, and many trying hours. As editors, we had to be taught each technique and aspect of yearbook production. Before we could embark upon publishing the 1988 Hielan, there was a learning process to experience. It was Ms. Sandra Richards who took it upon herself to train and prepare us for the job that we were about to face.

Ms. Richards began teaching at Upland High in 1976. She started out as a business teacher and became the Hielan advisor in 1983. Among her contributions to the U.H.S., she has also been Black Student Awareness advisor.

A graduate of San Bernardino High School, she completed her Bachelor degree at San Jose State and has recently achieved her Master's from Cal State San Bernardino.

Ms. Richards has been an educator and a dear friend to us for a long time. We've missed having her as our advisor this past year. It has been a great challenge putting into effect all that she has taught us.

This book would not be the quality material that it is without her training. Thank you, Ms. Richards.
